

Morton Rips Tonkin Gulf Encounter

Hints Action Was Provoked To Enable Buildup

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said today that the Tonkin Gulf naval encounter, which touched off large-scale American military intervention in Vietnam, may "have been the result of deliberate provocation."

Writing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, released today, the onetime Republican national chairman did not state directly who was behind the "provocation."

"To this date what actually happened has not been made fully public," Morton wrote.

"But," he added, "from the evidence I have seen and from conversations with those familiar with the facts, one point stands out in my mind with painful starkness."

"By daybreak, just a few hours after the naval encounter, substantial retaliatory American land, sea and air forces were poised for all-out military intervention. This was made possible by logistical preparations that must have required long and thorough planning."

Morton asserted: "The application of the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, which permitted the President to make this struggle in Vietnam an American war, was based upon the flimsiest of hard information and may even have been the result of deliberate provocation."

The administration claims, Morton pointed out, that North Vietnamese gunboats made an unprovoked attack on two American destroyers in international waters of the Gulf of Tonkin, off the Vietnamese coast, on Aug. 4, 1964.

Morton said the Tonkin resolution, which he voted for, was "a double deception. I am convinced, first, that the military high command at the Pentagon, at Honolulu and in Saigon deceived the President by its analysis of the alleged occurrences in the Gulf of Tonkin."

"Second, President Johnson did not, as he could have, come before the Congress and candidly admit that the rapidly deteriorating circumstances in Vietnam required a major increase in U.S. participation. He resorted to subterfuge."

Howard U Protesters End Sit-In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard University students, partially victorious in demands for more black orientation on their predominantly Negro campus, return to classrooms today after a five-day takeover of the administration building.

The protest by some 1,200 chanting, singing students ended late Saturday when leaders accepted a board of trustees compromise and demonstrators left the administration building.

Trustees agreed to let the student government discipline 39 students accused of disrupting May 1 Charter Day ceremonies and promised not to press charges against the protesters. The trustees also announced student demands for more black orientation of the university would be worked out by a committee of board members, students and faculty members.

The demands included establishment of a Black Awareness Institute, formation of a student judiciary and convening of an all-black college student convention at Howard on student roles.

Student demands for the resignation of university President James M. Nabrit Jr., 67, were not mentioned in the compromise agreement.

U.N. Resolution Condemns Israel For Jordan Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council unanimously condemned Israel Sunday night for last week's attack on Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan. But Israel brushed aside the rebuke and insisted it acted in self defense.

The 15-nation council voted as the guns of Israel and Jordan opened up anew along the Jordan River frontier.

The council resolution also deplored "all violent incidents in violation" of the 1967 Arab-Israeli cease-fire. But Arab delegates challenged the U.S. view that those words applied to Arab terrorist raids into Israel.

The resolution further deplored loss of life and property from the attack. It declared that such actions could not be tolerated and that the council "would have to consider further and more effective steps as envisaged" in the U.N. charter to prevent their repetition—a hint at economic and military sanctions. It called on Israel to "desist from" mistreating Arabs in occupied territory.

The council acted at its eighth meeting in four days on complaints filed by Jordan and Israel against each other.

The compromise resulted from negotiations between the meetings. Ambassadors Arthur J. Goldberg of the United States and Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan nailed it down shortly before the vote.

The agreement to deplore "violent incidents" made possible passage of the resolution. India, Pakistan and Senegal had submitted a resolution Saturday night containing such a condemnation. But on Arab advice they left out a provision Goldberg had demanded—deplored "all violent incidents and other violations of the cease-fire."

Because of this, their resolution was sure of getting only seven of the nine votes necessary for adoption—those of the sponsors plus the Soviet Union, Hungary, Algeria and France.

India then suggested a compromise formula—deplored "all violent incidents in violation of the cease-fire."

Arabs insist that individual Palestine Arabs setting bombs in Israel do not violate the cease-fire because the council's cease-fire resolutions for last June's Arab-Israeli war are addressed not to individuals but to governments.

NFO Silent On Recent Hog Killings

Staley Refuses Any Comment On Slaughter

CORNING, Iowa (AP)—The National Farmers Organization maintained silence Monday about recent hog killing demonstrations by its members in their campaign to improve prices.

The hog kills in Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, South Dakota and elsewhere in the last couple of weeks have sparked sharp criticism in some quarters, and defense of the NFO in others.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., refused to talk to reporters over the weekend about incidents where NFO members delivered 148 Illinois hogs to a Missouri prison farm to be slaughtered for the St. Louis poor, and others in Britton, S. D., killed and buried about 100 head despite efforts of a national church group to obtain the meat for shipment overseas.

An NFO official at the militant farm organization's headquarters here said any statement would have to come from Staley and he was tied up in negotiations with major meat packers and wouldn't talk to newsmen.

Staley had said earlier, after Indiana NFO members staged the first hog kill, that the hogs were theirs and they could do what they want with them.

NFO is trying to boost market prices for hogs by four cents a pound. Market prices currently are about 19 cents a pound.

Dam Breaks; Flash Flood Kills Man

LEE, Mass. (AP) — An earthen dam built to control spring flooding gave way Sunday, letting loose a wall of water that killed one man, wrecked homes and dumped mud in a building four miles away.

Rescuers searched for the body of a woman believed trapped when water from man-made Lake Lee poured through a 40-foot hole in the dam.

Police said the water gushed into East Lee Brook—normally a placid trout stream—overflowed its banks and swept away everything in its path.

The lake was swollen by two days of torrential rains last week that caused minor flooding on rivers and streams in most of New England.

A witness said a wave of water 10 feet high and 150 yards wide wrecked six homes, flooded dozens more and uprooted large trees in its path.

The flood swept several cars off a two-mile section of U.S. Route 20, but police said no bodies were found inside. The Lee exit of the Massachusetts Turnpike was closed by the water.

Initial estimates placed damages at about $10 million.

Marine Chief Predicts Base At Khe Sanh Can Be Held

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Marine Corps commandant says the Communist North Vietnamese "can't force us out" of besieged Khe Sanh by bombarding its airstrip into uselessness and preventing its resupply.

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. said, "We've got ample helicopter capability which doesn't need any airstrip and we also have an air-drop capability."

The 15,000 or more Communist troops threatening the Marine-held bastion in northwestern South Vietnam have intensified their bombardment of Khe Sanh in recent days.

Also, there are reports of anti-aircraft artillery which could seriously threaten American planes and helicopters supplying and protecting the base.

Chapman, who took over leadership of the 300,000-man Marine Corps Jan. 1, said in an exclusive interview that if the North Vietnamese intend to assault Khe Sanh with infantry "they are going to have to hurry because the weather is running out on them."

He said "they not only have to have bad weather to assault it, but they've got to have bad weather to hold it" in the face of U.S. air and artillery power.

Critics have argued Khe Sanh is not worth the blood and resources being spent to hold it.

Chapman disagreed, saying the position sits astride main infiltration routes—"as long as we hold them, they can't use them."

"Of course, there is also the psychological aspect of the thing as it is now built up," the Marine chief said, meaning that Khe Sanh has taken on a symbolic quality akin to Dien Bien Phu, the French outpost overrun at the end of the French-Indochina war.

On other points, Chapman also: —Opposed any change in basic U.S. strategy in Vietnam and voiced confidence the United States can reach its goals there "if we just persevere."

—Rejected the idea of pulling U.S. forces back to defending population centers and bases and leaving the countryside unprotected.

"I certainly would not favor what is called the enclave strategy," he said. "I think that is tantamount to certain defeat."

—Conceded the Communist winter offensive registered shocks to the allied cause and dealt "a setback to many things, particularly the pacification program."

—Forecast that in the long run the net effect of that offensive "will be favorable to us" because of Communist violence against Vietnamese civilians.

—Powell also delivered a short sermon at the Abyssinian Baptist Church, where he has been pastor for many years.

Powell, a Democrat, was ousted from Congress on charges of misusing public funds, and charged with contempt in defying New York courts over full payment of a libel judgment against him. When he returned to New York he was released on parole pending appeal of his conviction. He promised a judge he would obey all future court orders.

Boats Carried Arms, Food For Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers have smashed 245 sampans carrying weapons and food to Viet Cong troops in the Mekong Delta in the last three days, the U.S. Command said today.

Gunships destroyed 114 sampans and damaged another 50 Sunday at an enemy base camp near the Cambodian border, headquarters said. Pilots spotted the flotilla while flying support missions for South Vietnamese civilian irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisers fighting the Viet Cong 116 miles southwest of Saigon.

Headquarters said 20 Viet Cong soldiers were killed and 43 huts destroyed. It reported two civilian irregulars wounded.

Earlier Sunday, South Vietnamese infantrymen spotted a force estimated as a battalion moving in sampans near the delta city of Sa Dec, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, and called in air strikes. U.S. pilots reported sinking 36 sampans and said

Tuskegee Institute Is Picketed

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — Students boycotted classes and set up picket lines in front of campus buildings at Tuskegee Institute today to emphasize their grievances against school officials.

A spokesman for the predominantly Negro institute said "it appears" that the boycott was directed against all classes.

He said students milled around the campus while pickets paraded in front of the academic building and "two or three other buildings."

Evidence of discontent broke out last Thursday when engineering students stayed away from classes. All classes were suspended Friday by President L. H. Foster so college officials could listen to the complaints, but classroom work was resumed the following day.

The student demands included a relaxation in the compulsory ROTC training regulation, the granting of athletic scholarships, and changes in curfew rules and housing conditions.

GOP Moderates Still Seeking Alternative to Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP moderates who had urged Nelson A. Rockefeller to seek the party's presidential nomination have formed a nationwide "Coalition for a Republican Alternative."

Hatfield, who opposes the administration's war course, also said he would support for president Sens. Robert F. Kennedy or Eugene J. McCarthy, both seeking the Democratic nomination, if Nixon's Vietnam position were not modified.

U.N. Resolution Condemns Israel For Jordan Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council unanimously condemned Israel Sunday night for last week's attack on Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan. But Israel brushed aside the rebuke and insisted it acted in self defense.

The 15-nation council voted as the guns of Israel and Jordan opened up anew along the Jordan River frontier.

The council resolution also deplored "all violent incidents in violation" of the 1967 Arab-Israeli cease-fire. But Arab delegates challenged the U.S. view that those words applied to Arab terrorist raids into Israel.

The resolution further deplored loss of life and property from the attack. It declared that such actions could not be tolerated and that the council "would have to consider further and more effective steps as envisaged" in the U.N. charter to prevent their repetition—a hint at economic and military sanctions. It called on Israel to "desist from" mistreating Arabs in occupied territory.

The council acted at its eighth meeting in four days on complaints filed by Jordan and Israel against each other.

The compromise resulted from negotiations between the meetings. Ambassadors Arthur J. Goldberg of the United States and Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan nailed it down shortly before the vote.

The agreement to deplore "violent incidents" made possible passage of the resolution.

India, Pakistan and Senegal had submitted a resolution Saturday night containing such a condemnation. But on Arab advice they left out a provision Goldberg had demanded—deploring "all violent incidents and other violations of the cease-fire."

Because of this, their resolution was sure of getting only seven of the nine votes necessary for adoption—those of the sponsors plus the Soviet Union, Hungary, Algeria and France.

India then suggested a compromise formula—deploring "all violent incidents in violation of the cease-fire."

Powell Predicts New 'Civil War'

NEW YORK (AP) — Deposed Congressman Adam Clayton Powell predicts "civil war" by young people over the nation's race situation.

Powell, back from an 18-month self-imposed exile in Bimini, the Bahamas, roared an

But, Powell added, he believed that both white and black youths would join in battling the "white power" structure.

Boats Carried Arms, Food For Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers have smashed 245 sampans carrying weapons and food to Viet Cong troops in the Mekong Delta in the last three days, the U.S. Command said today.

Gunships destroyed 114 sampans and damaged another 50 Sunday at an enemy base camp near the Cambodian border, headquarters said. Pilots spotted the flotilla while flying support missions for South Vietnamese civilian irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisers fighting the Viet Cong 116 miles southwest of Saigon.

Headquarters said 20 Viet Cong soldiers were killed and 43 huts destroyed. It reported two civilian irregulars wounded.

Earlier Sunday, South Vietnamese infantrymen spotted a force estimated as a battalion moving in sampans near the delta city of Sa Dec, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, and called in air strikes. U.S. pilots reported sinking 36 sampans and said

Observance of Chamber of Commerce Week is underway locally. Theme for this year's observance is "Accent on Freedom" and, ironically enough, a local teenager has written a letter to the editor based on "A Teenager's Thoughts on Freedom." The letter appears on page 2.

A PUBLIC hearing regarding the designation of a Community Action Agency by the county commissioners is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. today in the Common Pleas Court Room.

IS the Logan Elm a hackberry? . . . News media around the state carried the story recently of the planting of a sapling of the Logan Elm in the state park to replace the now dead elm. . . . Recently questions have been raised as to whether the sapling planted is really an elm. . . . A letter from the Ironton clerk of courts giving his reason for believing a mistake was made can be found on the editorial page. . . . J. S. Goode of Goode's Nursery who transplanted the sapling stated that it is difficult to tell which species the tree is at this time of year. . . . Goode stated, however, that he feels sure that the transplant is an American Elm, but that this can be easily checked when leaves come out this spring.

VOTERS must register by Wednesday for the May primary election. . . . Anyone who has changed their name through marriage or has moved since they last voted must re-register. . . . Persons who will be 21 years old by the November general election may register for and vote in the coming primary. . . . The Board of Elections in the basement of the courthouse will be open 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. daily until Wednesday.

THE cold, snowy, miserable weather of last Friday and Saturday drove would be gardeners back to their catalogues and golfers to their television sets to watch the last big weekend of basketball. . . . Warmer temperatures are in the offing and gardeners and other outdoor enthusiasts can anticipate getting back outside soon. . . . Gardeners and golfers could at least enjoy the comfort of a warm house, but the police shrouded crocuses could only hope for warmer weather.

Students boycotted classes and set up picket lines in front of campus buildings at Tuskegee Institute today to emphasize their grievances against school officials.

A spokesman for the predominantly Negro institute said "it appears" that the boycott was directed against all classes.

He said students milled around the campus while pickets paraded in front of the academic building and "two or three other buildings."

Evidence of discontent broke out last Thursday when engineering students stayed away from classes. All classes were suspended Friday by President L. H. Foster so college officials could listen to the complaints, but classroom work was resumed the following day.

The student demands included a relaxation in the compulsory ROTC training regulation, the granting of athletic scholarships, and changes in curfew rules and housing conditions.

GOP Moderates Still Seeking Alternative to Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP moderates who had urged Nelson A. Rockefeller to seek the party's presidential nomination have formed a nationwide "Coalition for a Republican Alternative."

And Sen. Jacob K. Javits said he will push for a Rockefeller favorite-son candidacy in New York State, a move he predicted would stir up national interest in Rockefeller for the nomination.

Rockefeller announced last week he won't be an active candidate but left the door open for a possible draft.

Word of the coalition came Sunday from Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., who denied it was a move to stop Richard M. Nixon from getting the nomination. The aim, Morton said, is to generate debate among Republicans on Vietnam and other issues.

Javits said he will nominate Rockefeller to be New York's favorite son at the Republican state committee meeting in Albany, N.Y., Wednesday.

"He'll go to the convention with a very strong bloc of votes which will put him before the convention" in opposition to Nixon, Javits said.

"This will stir the pot," Javits said of the favorites action, adding that efforts will continue in recruiting Rockefeller supporters nationally.

Hatfield also discussed the favorites approach, tagging Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois as Republicans with alternatives to the Vietnam policy.

Hatfield, who opposes the administration's war course, also said he would support for president Sens. Robert F. Kennedy or Eugene J. McCarthy, both seeking the Democratic nomination, if Nixon's Vietnam position were not modified.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

What is freedom? Perhaps I may be considered by some, too young to answer the question intelligently, nevertheless, I shall try to do so. I am aware that my knowledge is limited due to my not having lived long enough to have gained the experience necessary to speak with authority. On the other hand, since I am an American, enjoying the freedom of an American, little that I should know has been kept from me.

I feel that I know my country real well, both past and present. My teachers and my school books have made that possible. Through the freedom given to the American press by our Constitution, I am able to keep abreast of current events.

Much of what I read is disturbing and un-American, and yet underneath it all I am aware there still exists the fabric that binds this nation together and makes of it the greatest on the face of the earth.

I am aware that there are forces at work in America that would destroy that fabric. Many bear false and misleading banners. Many have no banners at all.

On the other hand, there are those among us who honestly believe, by substituting their philosophy for that contained in our Constitution, we would eventually arrive at perfection. Such a philosophy dreamed up under the influence of drugs while living on a dirty pad in a filthy hovel, could make us, if such a philosophy were to take over, a nation of sitting ducks.

My desire in life is that I shall be able to conduct it intelligently so that I may never become a dupe of those who would take away my freedom. Also that I shall forever remember the efforts and sacrifices of those who have preceded me and made it possible for me to enjoy the freedom that is my birthright as an American.

Through the nearly two hundred years of America's life, she has carried at her fore her standard—the Stars and Stripes. Many who have followed that standard have died in the pursuit of freedom. Many more will die to preserve it.

My generation to whom this banner is passing must accept the obligation of sustaining all that is implied in it.

Trust us with that obligation for we, too, know the real meaning of freedom.

Young Airman Knocked Silly In Defense of His Base

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) —

Rogelio Salcido will get no medal for the night he got knocked silly in defense of his country.

There is no proper decoration for the curly-haired Texan's experience.

The 23-year-old airman first class from Odessa, in the Air Force hardly a year, handled himself like a veteran. He had no way of knowing that the blow which struck him down came from friendly hands.

In jungle fatigues and with his M16 at the ready, Salcido had just survived a rocket attack on the big base at Da Nang.

As an air policeman he was at his post in the center of the field and as soon as the rockets stopped he popped out of his bunker and started checking the guard posts to see if they were okay.

A few fires were burning but the damage seems to have been slight as Salcido went from post to post along the runway.

"Next thing I knew I was bopped on the head," Salcido drawled. "I sort of woke up, feeling shaky, and saw this long thing laying there. I thought it was the rocket that hit me."

What felled Salcido indeed

looked like a rocket.

It was a four-foot flare container weighing 28 pounds dropped from that plane about 2,000 feet overhead. It had been faulty and the parachute hadn't ejected. The tubular flare had smashed dead-center into Salcido's helmet, a blow that would have knocked an elephant silly.

They put Salcido in the hospital for 48 hours until the ringing in his ears ceased and then he went back to duty, good as new.

Hubert Forgets His Tux Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, dashing from his plane to a Washington hotel for a speech-making engagement Sunday night, apologized for his informal attire.

"I haven't got my tux with me," he told the triennial convention of B'nai B'rith women. "I've been having a lot of trouble with my tuxedo lately and I didn't want to send anyone for it."

Humphrey was referring to a recent appearance in Pennsylvania when his Air Force plane returned to Washington for his briefcase and his luggage. Questions followed about the extra flight—and the $704 tab was picked up by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Scranton, Pa., group Humphrey had addressed.

Patrol Cites 24 Motorists To Muny Court

State Highway Patrol filed charges of traffic violations against seven local and 15 out-of-county motorists in Municipal Court Friday.

Ora Rotgebe, 35, Williamsport, forfeited a $29 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 50 mile zone.

William Williams, 40, Kingston, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Sterling Lamb to charges of speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone. He was fined $15 and costs.

Robert Richards, 19, Route 1, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Dale Barnhart, 43, Ashville, was charged with failure to display a slow moving vehicle emblem. The $24 bond was declared forfeited when the defendant failed to appear in court.

Henry Walker, 43, of 325 Long St., forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 43 miles in a 35 mile zone.

Fred Stumbo, 22, Stoutsville, forfeited a $24 bond when he failed to appear in court to answer charges of speeding 60 miles in a 45 mile zone.

John Clay, 21, Ashville, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $300 in fines, bond forfeitures and costs from 15 out-of-county motorists.

AWOL Soldier Apprehended by Local Officers

John Keaton, Route 2, Ashville, AWOL from the United States Army, was apprehended by city and county law enforcement agencies Sunday in Circleville.

Keaton was spotted in a car on N. Court St. at 5:15 p. m. Sunday by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who promptly notified city police.

City Policemen Larry Pottious and Gary O'Hara and Deputy Sheriff Richard Clark apprehended Keaton in a home on Fourth Ave. He was turned over to military police today.

nomination: 1,312 votes.

A New York Times survey of Democratic state leaders indicated Johnson could win more than 65 per cent of delegate votes if the convention were held today. The Times said Johnson was judged to control 1,725 votes for Kennedy and McCarthy. But several leaders indicated increased Kennedy activity in their states could force a revision in their estimates.

Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, said he will not campaign for the senator. But his wife, Eunice, said she expected to in the time she has before Shriver assumes his post as ambassador to France. Shriver said he thinks Kennedy "has the finest intentions" and "I wish him well."

An old friend of the Kennedy family, Ambassador Averell Harriman, endorsed Johnson for reelection saying he believes that under Johnson's leadership, "we can achieve peace."

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, a top House Republican leader, predicted Nixon will win the GOP nomination on the first ballot, and suggested as a Nixon vice presidential running mate John W. Gardner, who recently resigned as secretary of health, education and welfare.

In Wisconsin, McCarthy campaign leaders said they think their candidate will be able to stop Johnson's renomination and added they will seek "grass roots" financial support.

Kennedy drew big crowds in California, where 174 convention votes will be at stake in the June 4 primary. He said the Johnson administration is "calling upon the darker impulses of the American spirit."

the enemy fled into nearby woods.

Numerous secondary explosions have been reported after the recent attacks on the sampans, indicating they were carrying ammunition or fuel.

U.S. officials said the volume of war supplies, presumably coming from Cambodia along many rivers and canals, has increased considerably in recent days.

This indicates the Viet Cong may be replenishing supplies depleted during their lunar new year offensive for possible fresh attacks in the delta. U.S. officials said the allies have begun a major effort to stop the sampan traffic.

On South Vietnam's northern frontier, North Vietnamese gunners shot down two U.S. Marine helicopters near Khe Sanh. One, a gunship, was attacking an enemy bunker complex two miles northwest of the Marine fortress. Its four crewmen were rescued but suffered burns when the chopper crashed.

A Marine patrol had called for gunships and artillery support after clashing briefly with the enemy platoon. It reported 31 North Vietnamese soldiers and five Marines were killed and four Marines wounded.

Enemy groundfire also hit a big CH-46 Seaknight helicopter landing with cargo five miles southwest of Camp Carroll, the artillery base to the east that supports Khe Sanh. Although moderately damaged, the helicopter landed safely and the crew was uninjured, spokesmen said.

About 100 shells hit the Khe Sanh base Sunday, a sharp drop from the more than 600 rounds fired into the fortress on each of the two previous days. Casualties were reported light.

3 Bodies, Some Wreckage Of Irish Airliner Found

FISGUARD, Wales (AP) —

Bodies and bits of wreckage were found today near where an Irish airliner plunged spinning into the Irish Sea Sunday with 61 persons aboard. Hope has almost been abandoned for finding any survivors.

The British Air-Sea Rescue Center, directing the search, said a frigate had picked up two bodies and sighted a third.

Wreckage was found, too, about eight miles off Rosslare Point, Wexford, Ireland.

The last cryptic message from the pilot said "...at least 1,000 feet...spinning rapidly."

Lifeboats from Kilmore and Dunmore on the Irish coast put to sea and an Irish Army helicopter joined the search for more bodies and wreckage.

On shore, squads of police from Wexford and Rosslare patrolled the beaches, should anything be washed up there.

The British navy frigate HMS Hardy reported she would put into Rosslare harbor tonight with three bodies and some wreckage.

The finding of the bodies, closer to the Irish coast than expected, drew an armada of vessels which had been concentrating the search nearer the British mainland.

Royal Air Force Shackleton aircraft also moved in to help. Investigators urgently needed wreckage from the Aer Lingus British-built Viscount airliner to provide clues as to the reason for the crash.

Capt. Gordon Black, air safety officer for Aer Lingus, said earlier, "The thing is a complete mystery."

No Americans were known to have been aboard the plane, from Cork to London. The passengers included nine Swiss citizens who had been on a fishing vacation in southern Ireland.

Seconds before the crash, another Irish airliner in the area picked up a radio message apparently from the ill-fated plane that it was spinning at 1,000 feet.

The message, much of it lost in background noise, was: "We moved ... breaking up ... that's better ... Who are you talking to? ... 1,000 feet, spinning rapidly"

An airline spokesman said the weather at the time of the crash was normal and "nothing that a Viscount could not cope with."

However, rain swept in from the west later in the day and hampered search operations.

The spokesman added that the airline "never had experience of an aircraft spinning before, nor do I know of any other case."

Patrol Car Wrecked In Pursuit

A State Highway Patrol cruiser from the local post was involved in a two-car accident developing out of a chase that ended on Route 23 three miles north of Chillicothe 11:18 p. m. Sunday.

Patrolman Ed John Keegan, of 219 Cedar Heights Road, had signaled a car driven by Kenneth Kingrey, 17, Obetz, to stop. Kingrey refused to stop and a chase resulted.

Kingrey had purchased $5 worth of gasoline in South Bloomfield and left the service station without paying, according to the patrol.

Patrolman Keegan spotted the Kingrey vehicle south of Circleville and chased it towards Chillicothe. Two Chillicothe patrolmen set up a road block to stop the Kingrey car.

As Kingrey approached the road block his engine exploded sending smoke over the road and forcing him to stop abruptly. The patrol car was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision due to the poor visibility.

The patrol car sustained $200 in damages. The accident is still under investigation according to the patrol.

Don E. Krieger Enrolled at CTS

Don E. Krieger, son of Mary C. Krieger, Ashville, is enrolling this semester at Christian Theological Seminary, a graduate, professional school for the education of ministers for the church.

The seminary, historically related to the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), has a strong ecumenical orientation. The 255 students represent 26 different denominations and come from 121 undergraduate institutions in 35 states and 19 other countries. The 20 faculty members are from six Christian communions.

Don Krieger is superintendent of Group Life at the Indiana Methodist Children's home, Lebanon, Indiana, while a student at CTS.

Young Airman Knocked Silly In Defense of His Base

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Rogelio Salcido will get no medal for the night he got knocked silly in defense of his country.

There is no proper decoration for the curly-haired Texan's experience.

The 23-year-old airman first class from Odessa, in the Air Force hardly a year, handled himself like a veteran. He had no way of knowing that the blow which struck him down came from friendly hands.

In jungle fatigues and with his M16 at the ready, Salcido had just survived a rocket attack on the big base at Da Nang. As an air policeman he was at his post in the center of the field and as soon as the rockets stopped he popped out of his bunker and started checking the guard posts to see if they were okay.

A few fires were burning but the damage seems to have been slight as Salcido went from post to post along the runway.

"Next thing I knew I was bopped on the head," Salcido drawled. "I sort of woke up, feeling shaky, and saw this long thing laying there. I thought it was the rocket that hit me."

What felled Salcido indeed

looked like a rocket. It was a four-foot flare container weighing 28 pounds dropped from that plane about 2,000 feet overhead. It had been faulty and the parachute hadn't ejected. The tubular flare had smashed dead-center into Salcido's helmet, a blow that would have knocked an elephant silly. They put Salcido in the hospital for 48 hours until the ringing in his ears ceased and then he went back to duty, good as new.

Hubert Forgets His Tux Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, dashing from his plane to a Washington hotel for a speech-making engagement Sunday night, apologized for his informal attire.

"I haven't got my tux with me," he told the triennial convention of B'nai B'rith women. "I've been having a lot of trouble with my tuxedo lately and I didn't want to send anyone for it."

Humphrey was referring to a recent appearance in Pennsylvania when his Air Force plane returned to Washington for his briefcase and his luggage. Questions followed about the extra flight—and the $704 tab was picked up by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Scranton, Pa., group Humphrey had addressed.

Robert Richards, 19, Route 1, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Dale Barnhart, 43, Ashville, was charged with failure to display a slow moving vehicle emblem. The $24 bond was declared forfeited when the defendant failed to appear in court.

Henry Walker, 43, of 325 Long St., forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 43 miles in a 35 mile zone.

Fred Stumbo, 22, Stoutsville, forfeited a $24 bond when he failed to appear in court to answer charges of speeding 60 miles in a 45 mile zone.

John Clay, 21, Ashville, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $300 in fines, bond forfeitures and costs from 15 out-of-county motorists.

AWOL Soldier Apprehended by Local Officers

John Keaton, Route 2, Ashville, AWOL from the United States Army, was apprehended by city and county law enforcement agencies Sunday in Circleville.

Keaton was spotted in a car on N. Court St. at 5:15 p. m. Sunday by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who promptly notified city police.

City Policemen Larry Pontious and Gary O'Hara and Deputy Sheriff Richard Clark apprehended Keaton in a home on Fourth Ave. He was turned over to military police today.

GOP Moderates

nomination: 1,312 votes.

—A New York Times survey of Democratic state leaders indicated Johnson could win more than 65 per cent of delegate votes if the convention were held today. The Times said Johnson was judged to control 1,725 votes for Kennedy and McCarthy of 790 for Kennedy and McCarthy. But several leaders indicated increased Kennedy activity in their states could force a revision in their estimates.

Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, said he will not campaign for the senator. But his wife, Eunice, said she expected to in the time she has before Shriver assumes his post as ambassador to France. Shriver said he thinks Kennedy "has the finest intentions" and "I wish him well."

—An old friend of the Kennedy family, Ambassador Averell Harriman, endorsed Johnson for reelection saying he believes that under Johnson's leadership, "we can achieve peace."

—Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, a top House Republican leader, predicted Nixon will win the GOP nomination on the first ballot, and suggested as a Nixon vice presidential running mate John W. Gardner, who recently resigned as secretary of health, education and welfare.

—In Wisconsin, McCarthy campaign leaders said they think their candidate will be able to stop Johnson's renomination and added they will seek "grass roots" financial support.

—Kennedy drew big crowds in California, where 174 convention votes will be at stake in the June 4 primary. He said the Johnson administration is "calling upon the darker impulses of the American spirit."

Boats Carried

the enemy fled into nearby woods.

Numerous secondary explosions have been reported after the recent attacks on the sampans, indicating they were carrying ammunition or fuel.

U.S. officials said the volume of war supplies, presumably coming from Cambodia along many rivers and canals, has increased considerably in recent days.

This indicates the Viet Cong may be replenishing supplies depleted during their lunar new year offensive for possible fresh attacks in the delta. U.S. officials said the allies have begun a major effort to stop the sampan traffic.

On South Vietnam's northern frontier, North Vietnamese gunners shot down two U.S. Marine helicopters near Khe Sanh. One, a gunship, was attacking an enemy bunker complex two miles northwest of the Marine fortress. Its four crewmen were rescued but suffered burns when the chopper crashed.

A Marine patrol had called for gunships and artillery support after clashing briefly with the enemy platoon. It reported 31 North Vietnamese soldiers and five Marines were killed and four Marines wounded.

Enemy groundfire also hit a big CH46 Seaknight helicopter landing with cargo five miles southwest of Camp Carroll, the artillery base to the east that supports Khe Sanh. Although moderately damaged, the helicopter landed safely and the crew was uninjured, spokesmen said.

About 100 shells hit the Khe Sanh base Sunday, a sharp drop from the more than 600 rounds fired into the fortress on each of the two previous days. Casualties were reported light.

3 Bodies, Some Wreckage Of Irish Airliner Found

FISGUARD, Wales (AP) — Bodies and bits of wreckage were found today near where an Irish airliner plunged spinning into the Irish Sea Sunday with 61 persons aboard. Hope has almost been abandoned for finding any survivors.

The British Air-Sea Rescue Center, directing the search, said a frigate had picked up two bodies and sighted a third.

Wreckage was found, too, about eight miles off Rosslare Point, Wexford, Ireland.

The last cryptic message from the pilot said "...at least 1,000 feet...spinning rapidly."

Lifeboats from Kilmore and Dunmore on the Irish coast put to sea and an Irish Army helicopter joined the search for more bodies and wreckage.

On shore, squads of police from Wexford and Rosslare patrolled the beaches, should anything be washed up there.

The British navy frigate HMS Hardy reported she would put into Rosslare harbor tonight with three bodies and some wreckage.

The finding of the bodies, closer to the Irish coast than expected, drew an armada of vessels which had been concentrating the search nearer the British mainland.

Royal Air Force Shackleton aircraft also moved in to help. Investigators urgently needed wreckage from the Aer Lingus British-built Viscount airliner to provide clues as to the reason for the crash.

Capt. Gordon Black, air safety officer for Aer Lingus, said earlier, "The thing is a complete mystery."

No Americans were known to have been aboard the plane, from Cork to London. The passengers included nine Swiss citizens who had been on a fishing vacation in southern Ireland.

Seconds before the crash, another Irish airliner in the area picked up a radio message apparently from the ill-fated plane that it was spinning at 1,000 feet.

The message, much of it lost in background noise, was: "We moved ... breaking up ... hat's better ... Who are you talking to? ... 1,000 feet, spinning rapidly"

An airline spokesman said the weather at the time of the crash was normal and "nothing that a Viscount could not cope with." However, rain swept in from the west later in the day and hampered search operations.

The spokesman added that the airline "never had experience of an aircraft spinning before, nor do I know of any other case."

Patrol Car Wrecked In Pursuit

A State Highway Patrol cruiser from the local post was involved in a two-car accident developing out of a chase that ended on Route 23 three miles north of Chillicothe 11:18 p. m. Sunday.

Patrolman Ed John Keegan, of 219 Cedar Heights Road, had signaled a car driven by Kenneth Kingrey, 17, Obetz, to stop. Kingrey refused to stop and a chase resulted.

Kingrey had purchased $5 worth of gasoline in South Bloomfield and left the service station without paying, according to the patrol.

Patrolman Keegan spotted the Kingrey vehicle south of Circleville and chased it towards Chillicothe. Two Chillicothe patrolmen set up a road block to stop the Kingrey car.

As Kingrey approached the road block his engine exploded sending smoke over the road and forcing him to stop abruptly. The patrol car was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision due to the poor visibility.

The patrol car sustained $200 in damages. The accident is still under investigation according to the patrol.

Speaker Named For NHS Banquet

Dr. Harold H. Eibling, superintendent of schools, Columbus, will be the speaker at the Pickaway County Honor Society Banquet Friday at Logan Elm School.

DR. HAROLD H. EIBLING

Forty-eight students have qualified for membership into the society this year. The banquet, open to faculty members of both elementary and high schools in the county, former members of the society, initiates and present members, begins at 6:30 p. m.

The program and initiation ceremony will be held in the Logan Elm gymnasium and will be open to parents and guests.

Dr. Eibling has been superintendent of the Columbus Public Schools since 1956.

Dr. Eibling's undergraduate work was completed at Ohio Northern University, and he earned two graduate degrees (M.A. and Ph. D.) at Ohio State University. He has also been awarded honorary doctorates by Ohio Northern University, Mount Union College, and Miami University.

He began his professional career as a teacher at Liberty Township School, Findlay, where he also served as high school principal and superintendent. Before coming to Columbus, he served as superintendent of the Maumee Public Schools, superintendent of the Elyria Public Schools, assistant superintendent of the Akron Public Schools, and superintendent of the Canton Public Schools.

He is co-author of a series of five history textbooks in general use throughout the United States, and he has had a number of articles published by professional journals.

Dr. Eibling is listed in various publications: Leaders in Education, Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Education, Who's Who in the Midwest, Who's Who in Ohio, and the Directory of American Scholars.

Active in civic, cultural, and religious organizations, he received the "Liberty Bell Award" from the Columbus Bar Association and was named "Boss of the Year" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, both in 1964, for his community leadership.

In 1963, Dr. Eibling was chosen for the Educator's Medal by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, for outstanding leadership in citizenship education.

Recently he has been appointed by the Governor to two important committees: The Steering Committee of the Education Commission of the States; the State Supported Education Review Committee.

He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

THE CITY LOAN & SAVINGS COMPANY

WHEN MONEY IS THE QUESTION, CITY LOAN IS THE ANSWER.

Days of Gold in Trade May Be Numbered

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) —The West's central bankers, having moved closer to freeing world money from its chains of gold, may take a further step in Stockholm this week toward turning the metal over to the jewelers wholesale.

That is the belief of Britain's top economists.

They see the establishment of a two-tier—a free and an official—market for gold as a logical answer to the recent gold panic.

Before the central bankers voted this system at Washington March 17, world currencies were related to each other by being exchangeable into gold at a fixed rate of $35 a fine ounce.

Workers Return To Munitions Plant

CLEVELAND (AP)—Workers were to go back to their jobs today at Weatherhead Co., ending a walkout which halted production at the munitions plant on East 131st Street since last Wednesday.

The plant produces high explosive antitank shells and other ordnance items used in Vietnam. The walkout of some 600 United Auto Workers Union members was blamed on unsettled grievances.

This was an artificially set price for all comers, governments, jewelers, hoarders and speculators.

The bankers have reserved for themselves continuance of the $35 price. When the central bankers exchange gold at that price, they are exchanging pure units of account with a purely arbitrary bookkeeping value.

In that case, economists here argue, they have no need for gold at all. A simple international understanding to continue exchanging their currencies at that rate would suffice, provided safeguards against cheating could be set up.

In Stockholm next Friday, delegates of 10 wealthy nations known as the Group of 10 meet to create the purest of purely credit money. Its units don't even have a name but are known as SDRs, standing for special drawing rights. One of them wouldn't buy a cup of coffee but the United States wants $2 billion worth of these governmental units of credit to be created each year.

That amount is roughly the average annual increase of world trade. At the present time, world trade has a volume of roughly $71 billion. There is only $45 billion worth of gold to finance that trade and last year not one ounce of newly mined gold found its way into the vaults of government banks. It all went to hoarders and speculators.

The difference between $45 billion and $71 billion was financed by dollars and pounds sterling pouring out of the United States and Britain.

The two countries for years have been buying, spending and lending more abroad than they were taking in. Their foreign payments deficits were covering the increasing volume of foreign trade.

Everything went merrily until people in Europe and even in America and Britain began to get worried and started changing their dollars and pounds into gold.

This steady drain brought the crash of the weaker of the two reserve currencies. The pound was devalued Nov. 18 and the attack on the dollar began.

Gold was siphoned out of the vaults of the seven central bankers through the international gold pool they set up in 1960. The gold pool, operated through the Bank of England, bought up or sold whatever gold was needed to steady the market. It worked well until the run on the bank began last November.

In Washington the seven central bankers, who were eight until France had enough last June and walked out, all but closed down the gold pool for good, since they agreed to end the supply of gold to private, non-governmental buyers.

Britain's gold market, the largest in the world, was shut down on the eve of the Washington meeting until next Monday. When it reopens it will operate like the markets in Paris, Zurich or Hong Kong, buying and selling whatever free, non-monetary gold comes on the market.

The London market will presumably also handle whatever new gold South Africa sells by agreement through the Bank of England. But Johannesburg doesn't seem in any hurry to sell its gold these days, pending clarification of the intentions of the central bankers.

Thus, said Prof. Harry G. Johnson of the London School of Economics in The Times, the speculators by their panic raid on gold have hastened "the demonization of gold and its replacement by a credit money, the only rational solution to the fundamental irrationality of an international monetary system based on gold."

Speculators and hoarders have already bought up enough gold to supply the jewelry market for a long time.

Sheriff Candidate Aids Opponent

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Harry Sawyer, a former Key West police lieutenant, interrupted his campaign for sheriff long enough to help his opponent, Sheriff Reace Thompson, capture a prison escapee.

Sawyer was on a campaign trip through Florida's keys when he heard a radio report that two prisoners convicted of murder had escaped custody. Sawyer spotted one of the men along a highway and radioed the sheriff's department. Both prisoners were recaptured a short time later.

Murder Charge Filed in Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police filed a charge of first-degree murder Sunday against William Meyers, 28, in connection with the shotgun slaying earlier in the day of his stepfather, Harvey Shufelt, 57.

The shooting, according to officers, climaxed an argument at the suburban Price Hill home where both men lived.

Everything went merrily until people in Europe and even in America and Britain began to get worried and started changing their dollars and pounds into gold.

This steady drain brought the crash of the weaker of the two reserve currencies. The pound was devalued Nov. 18 and the attack on the dollar began.

Gold was siphoned out of the vaults of the seven central bankers through the international gold pool they set up in 1960. The gold pool, operated through the Bank of England, bought up or sold whatever gold was needed to steady the market. It worked well until the run on the bank began last November.

In Washington the seven central bankers, who were eight until France had enough last June and walked out, all but closed down the gold pool for good, since they agreed to end the supply of gold to private, non-governmental buyers.

Britain's gold market, the largest in the world, was shut down on the eve of the Washington meeting until next Monday. When it reopens it will operate like the markets in Paris, Zurich or Hong Kong, buying and selling whatever free, non-monetary gold comes on the market.

The London market will presumably also handle whatever new gold South Africa sells by agreement through the Bank of England. But Johannesburg doesn't seem in any hurry to sell its gold these days, pending clarification of the intentions of the central bankers.

Thus, said Prof. Harry G. Johnson of the London School of Economics in The Times, the speculators by their panic raid on gold have hastened "the demonization of gold and its replacement by a credit money, the only rational solution to the fundamental irrationality of an international monetary system based on gold."

Speculators and hoarders have already bought up enough gold to supply the jewelry market for a long time.

Sheriff Candidate Aids Opponent

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Harry Sawyer, a former Key West police lieutenant, interrupted his campaign for sheriff long enough to help his opponent, Sheriff Reace Thompson, capture a prison escapee.

Sawyer was on a campaign trip through Florida's keys when he heard a radio report that two prisoners convicted of murder had escaped custody. Sawyer spotted one of the men along a highway and radioed the sheriff's department. Both prisoners were recaptured a short time later.

Murder Charge Filed in Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police filed a charge of first-degree murder Sunday against William Meyers, 28, in connection with the shotgun slaying earlier in the day of his stepfather, Harvey Shufelt, 57.

The shooting, according to officers, climaxed an argument at the suburban Price Hill home where both men lived.

NEW YORK (AP) — The discovery that poorly conceived, mass produced employment tests can deprive corporations of valuable talent is leading some companies to place more reliance today on personal examination of applicants.

This reaction is good news not just to the geniuses who fail to conform to the pattern demanded by the tests but to those who, because of background and environment, cannot fully understand the meaning of questions.

In this latter category, says the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, are numerous minority group members, especially Negroes, Spanish Americans and the foreign born.

The commission, in a report just released, noted that "the personnel procedures of many employers screen out rather than screen in people." With good workers in scarce supply, this could be damaging to both company and job applicant.

Standardized tests, said William Taylor, staff director of the commission, have been designed to test the white middle class. To illustrate, he draws this question from a widely used test: "Does R.S.V.P. mean 'reply not necessary'?"

Although it is entirely possible that the white applicant would fail the question, it isn't difficult to manage a much higher failure rate for those from environments where such niceties have little meaning.

Would the white applicant do well on this question:

"Cheap chitlings taste rubbery unless they are cooked long enough. How soon can you quit cooking them to eat and enjoy them? 1. 15 minutes. 2. Two hours. 3. One day. 4. One week on a low flame. 5. One hour."

The answer: It would take one day or 24 hours to properly cook cheap chitlings.

The report, called Employment Testing: Guide Signs, Not Stop Signs, was prepared by Myron Kandel, editor of the New York Law Journal on assignment from the commission, a temporary, bipartisan, independent agency set up by Congress.

One of the major themes of the report is that employers must remember that the applicant who cannot perform well on a test might perform well on the job. To overlook this may be to ignore a potentially productive employee.

Among the several other ways in which employers deprive themselves of good workers and retard the future of applicants: —Setting standards unnecessarily high.

—Using tests as the sole indication of whether to hire or reject.

—Confusing social acceptability with the capability of doing the job.

—Failing to recruit from among minority groups.

—Using unskilled personnel interviewers.

—Failing to train potential employees, even though government funds are available to assist employers in training the unemployed.

Try and Stop Me

THERE'S an undergraduate at Oregon State who actually won his professor's commendation for falling asleep in class more often than any other two classmates combined. The course they were taking is listed as "How to Relax."

They tell about a famous maestro who gets an average of two hundred requests a month by mail from adoring fans begging for a lock of his hair. He graciously grants every request, too. "At this rate," warned a Philadelphia music critic, "you'll be completely bald in another year." "Not I," corrected the maestro. "My sheepdog will."

"Voice of America's" new boss, John Charles Daly, drooled over by bemused females all the way from Garden City, Kansas, to Federalburg, Maryland, came home from his broadcasting chores one hot afternoon completely bushed. As he threw his coat wearily onto a chaise longue his young daughter, arithmetic book in hand, planted a wet kiss on his fevered brow and demanded, "Hey, Pop, how do you take one quarter from one fifth?" "Honeybunch," he told her solemnly, "watch me. I'm about to do it."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are there different kinds of coughs? When should they be suppressed?

A cough is part of a wonderful mechanism that clears the airway, bronchial tubes and the lungs of any irritation. This reflex action protects the entire respiratory tree from foreign substances, polluted air and the accumulation of mucus.

The slightest irritant in the windpipe sends an immediate signal in a millionth of a second to the cough center in the brain. The message is immediately relayed to the muscles in the chest and an explosive cough clears the passageway of the irritant.

When a germ invades the bronchi and the lung inflammation sets up and becomes a source of irritation that produces a cough.

There are two basic kinds of cough. The first is a dry one which is a hacking cough and may be the result of irritation by tobacco or smoke or other pollution of the inhaled air. The second is a productive cough which brings up the accumulated mucus, sputum and pus that results from infection.

The treatment of a cough depends, of course, on attacking the underlying cause. The dry, hacking cough is usually eliminated if the irritation from tobacco, pollution and industrial fumes are eliminated. Proper ventilation and increased humidity of the air will decrease the cough.

Infection is treated with antibiotics. The coughs that result from infection are encouraged rather than suppressed so that stagnant fluid will not accumulate in the lungs.

There are hundreds of over-the-counter drugs. Many of them make extravagant claims without real scientific and medical value. Before any cough medicine is taken either to suppress or encourage a cough a doctor's suggestion should be followed. Drugs that "hit the cough center" should never be taken without his specific advice.

Is there any real health advantage to a rapid course of treatment at a health spa?

A two week interval of health care in a 52 week cycle of health neglect is valueless. The spa, now a symbol of social status, removes the guilt of people who overindulge themselves with food, liquor and tobacco and gives them a feeling of self-righteousness which lasts them for the rest of the year.

The more expensive the spa is and the more distant it is seems to enhance its temporary value. The joy of leaving a

Cary's Divorce

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In those wonderfully wacky comedies of the 1930s, Cary Grant and Irene Dunne always seemed to end up in a divorce court in the final reel.

Despite the charms of the other man—Randolph Scott or Ralph Bellamy—Irene chose to reconcile with Cary, much to the exasperation of the judge, usually Edgar Buchanan.

Thirty years later, Grant starred in a different divorce story—but he never appeared. One wonders if he doesn't feel that his New York auto accident was a blessing though well disguised. At least he was spared face-to-face confrontation with his wife's accusations.

Dyan Cannon Grant testified that her husband repeatedly used LSD, raged against her, constantly criticized her behavior. The trial was no comedy.

Yet there were moments of humor. A psychiatrist who had briefly examined Grant was asked if he was aware that Grant was "one of the world's greatest actors." The reply: "I know that he is one of the world's most famous actors." The underscoring of "famous" brought laughter from spectators.

There was also humor in an exchange between the same psychiatrist and Mrs. Grant's attorney, Frank Belcher, who questioned him about Grant's alleged expounding of Freudian symbolism. The use of explicit terms evoked laughter, as did the doctor's comment that he saw nothing unusual in such beliefs—"It merely indicates that the subject has been exposed to a lot of psychiatric talk."

Another laugh came when Belcher inquired: "Do you think it unusual that when a man's beloved Los Angeles Dodgers lose a game he comments, 'It wasn't the players' fault; it was their wives'?"

Aside from such bits of levity, the Grant trial bore no resemblance to the star's courtroom aplenty as Miss Cannon told of life with Cary. There were bitter wrangling between opposing lawyers over matters from dentist bills to attorney fees.

The lawyers themselves seemed type-cast; Belcher, a folksy fellow full of outrage over Grant's conduct toward his client; three defense attorneys, ever vigilant for the interests of the millionaire star; Judge Robert A. Wenk, a recent appointee of Gov. Ronald Reagan and as young and handsome as a leading man.

Wenk said in his decision that dividing the Grants' young daughter Jennifer between her mother and father "would require the wisdom of Solomon, which the court does not profess to have." But he came up with a complicated formula by which Grant would be allowed to have his daughter visit him 60 days per year.

Such was the ending of the latest marital chapter of the four-times-wed star who achieved fatherhood at 62. Somehow it isn't the same as the ending of a Cary Grant movie.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor: I saw in the Columbus Dispatch the picture of the "Offspring" of the Logan Elm. I knew as soon as I saw the picture of the "Offspring" that it was not an American Elm, not even a Slippery Elm or a Rock Elm.

The Logan Elm was an American Elm. The "Offspring" has a trunk like a Hickory Nut Tree from the ground all the way up to its top. American Elm has no trunk but sends up a number of limbs like a giant water fountain. The Logan Elm has no terminal bud which grows to elongate the limb or which causes the tree to grow in height. The Apple Tree, Sugar Tree, Poplar Tree all have a terminal bud which adds growth each year to make the limbs longer and the tree higher or taller.

The Logan Elm and all American Elms gain height by a limb growing on the side of another limb. Each year the Logan Elm and all other American Elms reach height and length by growing a limb on the side of the last years growth of limb and each successive year grows a limb first on one side and then the other side of each successive years growth.

The "Offspring" has a terminal bud which grows and adds to the last years growth which increases the length of the limb or increases the height of the tree. You can see last year's growth on each limb of the Offspring. There is no such growth on the end of an American Elm or the Logan Elm when it lived.

In the last 10 or 12 years my wife and I have visited the Logan Elm Park each year preceding 1963 when the Logan Elm put out leaves for the last time.

In my humble judgment the "Offspring" is not an American Elm, not even a Slippery Elm or a Rock Elm. All three of these Elms grow widely in our part of Ohio.

I visited Logan Elm Park Sunday March 17, 1968. In my humble judgment the "Offspring" is not an American Elm, not even a Slippery Elm or a Rock Elm. It is a Hackberry tree. If the "Offspring" grows "Witches Brooms" which are a bunch of small sprouts on the ends of small limbs caused by a fungus which attack Hackberry trees then it has named itself.

Dear Editor: I would like to say thanks and may God's richest blessings be upon all of you at the Christian Business Men's Committee of Circleville for bringing the Billy Graham movie "For Pete's Sake" to town.

Pickaway County is very fortunate to have a group of Christians who are concerned about the spiritual welfare of the young and adults.

In this day of rioting and unrest with everyone searching for meaning in life, may we all turn to God's Holy Word as these men have and search for it until we find it. God has given us all life but until we forsake sin and accept Jesus Christ as our own personal Lord and Savior we will not find this true joy and peace for which we are all searching.

Each Saturday morning at 6:45 these men meet at Noel's King Boy North. Any interested man is invited to attend these meetings. If anyone who saw "For Pete's Sake" and feels God has spoken to them would go out to the meeting they could share the good news with these laymen or if they need spiritual help, I'm sure they would help them.

Saturday these men are going to show "The Restless Ones" movie to the Fairfield School for Boys at Lancaster. Let's all support these laymen by our prayers and any other way we can as they continue to serve our community and our Lord.

May God bless all of you in all that you do.

France Isn't the Culprit

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Clarence Streit, the old Geneva correspondent of 1931 depression days who has been advocating a federal union of the Atlantic democracies for twenty years, has come up with astounding figures about international gold holdings that seem to have escaped everybody else. He flatly denies that De Gaulle's France has been the culprit in undermining the dollar, and the statistics certainly bear him out.

Mr. Streit did not obtain his information from esoteric sources; he simply took the trouble to read the January, 1968 Federal Reserve Bulletin. According to the Federal Reserve tables, France actually increased its dollar holdings in the November, 1966 to November, 1967 period by 34 per cent. This made the French figure second to Italy's 46 per cent in the increase in dollar holdings. In third place was the Netherlands (33 per cent); fourth was Belgium (31 per cent) and fifth, Canada (with six per cent). The biggest villain in the woodpile in the business of undermining the dollar position was Sweden which decreased its dollar holdings in the twelve-month period by 25 per cent. Spain was the second culprit, with a decrease of nineteen per cent.

If France hasn't been siphoning gold out of the U. S., we need a better villain than De Gaulle. Sweden, though it got rid of some dollars, didn't turn them into gold, for its gold stock stayed at $202 million throughout 1967. Mr. Streit concludes that the gold hoarders are private individuals who have learned to distrust all governments, that of the French no less than that of the U. S. It is the oil-rich Arabians who have been running away from western paper currencies. The old theory of the East as being the "sink of the metals," even as it was in Roman times, is still working. When you add the gold-hoarding, private European shopkeepers and peasants to the gold-hungry easterners you have a good explanation of the gold drain. And the Swiss Central Bank is obviously a major factor in routing gold into private hiding places for this bank took $248 million in gold from the U. S. in 1967.

Way back in mid-January (seems like ages ago) I wrote a column about the "Three Musketeers of Doom" in which I linked Mr. Streit together with George Schwartz of the London Sunday Times and Eliot Janeway, the U. S. market analyst, as predicting what has actually happened to the dollar during the past couple of weeks.

Mr. Janeway and Mr. Streit, though agreeing on diagnosis, are at a 180-degree variance on what should be done to take us out of our troubles. In their arguments they reproduce the old quarrel of the Nineteen Thirties, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was torn between following a go-it-alone policy for the U. S. and seeking a cure for depression by international agreements. After sending Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Raymond Moley to the London Economic Conference, which was supposed to figure out a way of coordinating western government policies to the end of increasing the sum of international trade, Roosevelt finally decided to isolate the U. S. economy and raise the internal price level.

What Roosevelt did worked for the U. S., at least for the period between 1933 and the depression-within-a-depression of 1938. But economic nationalism took a disastrous turn in Germany, where Hitler coordinated the isolationist policies of Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht with a program of military aggression. France and Britain, unable to pick up their economies at home, were powerless to arm against the Nazi threat.

Our trouble today is that we are damned if we try to save the dollar by orthodox "internationalist" means (such as raising interest rates in order to attract foreign money) and damned if we don't. The "international solution" provokes depression at home by making investment money tight and discouraging risk takers. But the "domestic solution," which would protect the dollar against foreign raids by a number of devices (such as suspending gold payments and raising tariffs), means that foreign nations depending on exports must be hurt. Soviet Russia, an isolated economy, stands to gain no matter what we do.

Clarence Streit, of course, argues that if the western democracies would only federate as the states of the U. S. federated in 1787, thus achieving a single currency system, we would neatly by-pass our two-pronged problem. In theory, yes. But who has the wisdom to bring this about? Echo answers, who?

TODAY In History

Today is Monday, March 25, the 85th day of 1968, here are 281 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1821, Greek patriots started a revolt against domination by the Ottoman empire. The uprising ended in 1833 with the establishment of the independent kingdom of Greece.

On this date:

In 1634, colonists led by Lord Baltimore reached Maryland.

In 1776, the first Congressional Medal was awarded to George Washington for his leadership in the capture of Boston.

In 1885, Confederate forces captured Ft. Sedman, Va.

In 1883, revolution broke out in Haiti.

In 1900, the Socialist party of the United States was organized at Indianapolis.

In 1947, an explosion in a mine in Centraia, Ill. left 111 miners dead.

Ten years ago — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was in Moscow discussing possible disarmament talks with Soviet leaders.

Five years ago — The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, Adlai E. Stevenson, said in Paris that U.S. determination to defend Europe cannot be questioned.

One year ago — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned from a European tour and suggested that President Johnson visit Europe to bolster what Nixon called a sagging Western alliance.

Inflation Blasted

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — Rep. Bob Dole, R-Kan., told a Regional Senior Citizens Conference that "inflation is a debilitating disease which strikes the older American with more savagery than any other groups." Retirement plans, Social Security and veterans benefits "must be insulated from the erosion of inflation," he said.

55 YEARS AGO
March 25, 1913

The greatest flood ever known in local history, struck this area. The Scioto River reached 24 feet, 2 inches.

The old Red River Bridge and Bloomfield Bridge were torn from their piers to float down the river and lodge against the aqueduct.

The water supply company was out of commission and the engines and dynamo of the electric plant were flooded.

Business was paralyzed — the city was thrown into darkness. Flood waters put out of commission the traction line and railroads both into and out of the city and the Colonial Carriage factory. The dairy of Dr. H. R. Clarke was also under water.

Water backed up into Hargus Creek placing most of the entire north end of the city under water.

The 2-year-old big iron bridge spanning the river over the canal appeared "ready to go."

Residents of N. Court St., Pleasant St. and part of Pickaway St. were marooned in their homes.

John D. Newton on Pleasant St. went into his barn to get out a cow. He was found clinging to the rafters of the barn where men chopped through the roof to rescue him.

Gas was cut off in the north end of the city. One household contained a wood-burning kitchen range. Occupants of this home shared their facilities with the entire neighborhood.

Many people were carried from their homes by boats and lodged in homes out of the flooded area.

The aqueduct was described as "standing like the rock of Gibraltar" with wreckage, logs, roofs of sheds and houses and trunks of trees lodged against it.

Co. "F" of the 4th Regiment was asked to assist in rescue work in Dayton. Owing to high waters, the men were unable to get out of the city until the following day.

The river fell 14 inches during the night.

S. economy and raise the internal price level.

What Roosevelt did worked for the U.S., at least for the period between 1933 and the depression-within-a-depression of 1938. But economic nationalism took a disastrous turn in Germany, where Hitler coordinated the isolationist policies of Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht with a program of military aggression. France and Britain, unable to pick up their economies at home, were powerless to arm against the Nazi threat.

Our trouble today is that we are damned if we try to save the dollar by orthodox "internationalist" means (such as raising interest rates in order to attract foreign money) and damned if we don't. The "international solution" provokes depression at home by making investment money tight and discouraging risk takers. But the "domestic solution," which would protect the dollar against foreign raids by a number of devices (such as suspending gold payments and raising tariffs), means that foreign nations depending on exports must be hurt. Soviet Russia, an isolated economy, stands to gain no matter what we do.

Clarence Streit, of course, argues that if the western democracies would only federate as the states of the U. S. federated in 1787, thus achieving a single currency system, we would neatly by-pass our two-pronged problem. In theory, yes. But who has the wisdom to bring this about? Echo answers, who?

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 25, the 85th day of 1968. Here are 281 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1821, Greek patriots started a revolt against domination by the Ottoman empire. The uprising ended in 1833 with the establishment of the independent kingdom of Greece.

On this date: In 1634, colonists led by Lord Baltimore reached Maryland.

In 1776, the first Congressional Medal was awarded to George Washington for his leadership in the capture of Boston.

In 1865, Confederate forces captured Ft. Stedman, Va.

In 1883, revolution broke out in Haiti.

In 1900, the Socialist party of the United States was organized at Indianapolis.

In 1947, an explosion in a mine in Centuria, Ill. left 111 miners dead.

Ten years ago — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was in Moscow discussing possible disarmament talks with Soviet leaders.

Five years ago — The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, Adlai E. Stevenson, said in Paris that U.S. determination to defend Europe cannot be questioned.

One year ago — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned from a European tour and suggested that President Johnson visit Europe to bolster what Nixon called a sagging Western alliance.

Inflation Blasted

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — Rep. Bob Dole, R-Kan., told a Regional Senior Citizens Conference that "inflation is a debilitating disease which strikes the older American with more savagery than any other groups." Retirement plans, Social Security and veterans benefits "must be insulated from the erosion of inflation," he said.

Water backed up into Hargus Creek placing most of the entire north end of the city under water.

The 2-year-old big iron bridge spanning the river over the canal appeared "ready to go."

Residents of N. Court St., Pleasant St. and part of Pickaway St. were marooned in their homes.

John D. Newton on Pleasant St. went into his barn to get out a cow. He was found clinging to the rafters of the barn where men chopped through the roof to rescue him.

Gas was cut off in the north end of the city. One household contained a wood-burning kitchen range. Occupants of this home shared their facilities with the entire neighborhood.

Many people were carried from their homes by boats and lodged in homes out of the flooded area.

The aqueduct was described as "standing like the rock of Gibraltar" with wreckage, logs, roofs of sheds and houses and trunks of trees lodged against it.

Co. "F" of the 4th Regiment was asked to assist in rescue work in Dayton. Owing to high waters, the men were unable to get out of the city until the following day.

The river fell 14 inches during the night.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THERE'S an undergraduate at Oregon State who actually won his professor's commendation for falling asleep in class more often than any other two classmates combined. The course they were taking is listed as "How to Relax."

They tell about a famous maestro who gets an average of two hundred requests a month by mail from adoring fans begging for a lock of his hair. He graciously grants every request, too. "At this rate," warned a Philadelphia music critic, "you'll be completely bald in another year." "Not I," corrected the maestro. "My sheepdog will."

"Voice of America's" new boss, John Charles Daly, drooled over by bemused females all the way from Garden City, Kansas, to Federalburg, Maryland, came home from his broadcasting chores one hot afternoon completely bushed. As he threw his coat wearily onto a chaise longue his young daughter, arithmetic book in hand, planted a wet kiss on his fevered brow and demanded, "Hey, Pop, how do you take one quarter from one fifth?" "Honeybunch," he told her solemnly, "watch me. I'm about to do it."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are there different kinds of coughs? When should they be suppressed?

A cough is part of a wonderful mechanism that clears the airway, bronchial tubes and the lungs of any irritation. This reflex action protects the entire respiratory tree from foreign substances, polluted air and the accumulation of mucus.

The slightest irritant in the windpipe sends an immediate signal in a millionth of a second to the cough center in the brain. The message is immediately relayed to the muscles in the chest and an explosive cough clears the passageway of the irritant.

When a germ invades the bronchi and the lung inflammation sets up and becomes a source of irritation that produces a cough.

There are two basic kinds of cough. The first is a dry one which is a hacking cough and may be the result of irritation by tobacco or smoke or other pollution of the inhaled air. The second is a productive cough which brings up the accumulated mucus, sputum and pus that results from infection.

The treatment of a cough depends, of course, on attacking the underlying cause. The dry, hacking cough is usually eliminated by the irritation from tobacco, pollution and industrial fumes are eliminated. Proper ventilation and increased humidity of the air will decrease the cough.

Infection is treated with antibiotics. The coughs that result from infection are encouraged rather than suppressed so that stagnant fluid will not accumulate in the lungs.

There are hundreds of over-the-counter drugs. Many of them make extravagant claims without real scientific and medical value. Before any cough medicine is taken either to suppress or encourage a cough a doctor's suggestion should be followed. Drugs that "hit the cough center" should never be taken without his specific advice.

Is there any real health advantage to a rapid course of treatment at a health spa?

A two week interval of health care in a 52 week cycle of health neglect is valueless.

The spa, now a symbol of social status, removes the guilt of people who overindulge themselves with food, liquor and tobacco and gives them a feeling of self-righteousness which lasts them for the rest of the year.

The more expensive the spa is and the more distant it is seems to enhance its temporary value. The joy of leaving a

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The first price of marriage for girls on the South Pacific island of Malekula is the loss of two front teeth. After buying his bride—in exchange for pigs and yams—the tribesman has her two front teeth knocked out in a solemn ceremony following the marriage rites. Believe it or not, it makes the brides feel proud.

Never give up. It took Christopher Columbus 18 years to get backing for his expedition to find a quick sea route to the Orient—but he came up with a new world.

The boom in skiing has brought a prosperity boom to Japan. It has 6 million of the world's 30 to 40 million skiers, and last year manufactured more skis than any other nation — 1.7 million pairs.

In America we answer the phone by saying, "Hello." The English do it with a crisp self-identification, such as, "Rodney here." But the cautious Russians give out no information at all until they are sure who is at the other end of the line. When they pick up a ringing phone, they ask, "Who is talking?" It still pays to be careful in the U.S.S.R.

Cary's Divorce

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In those wonderfully wacky comedies of the 1930s, Cary Grant and Irene Dunne always seemed to end up in a divorce court in the final reel.

Despite the charms of the other man—Randolph Scott or Ralph Bellamy—Irene chose to reconcile with Cary, much to the exasperation of the judge, usually Edgar Buchanan.

Thirty years later, Grant starred in a different divorce story—but he never appeared. One wonders if he doesn't feel that his New York auto accident was a blessing though well disguised. At least he was spared face-to-face confrontation with his wife's accusations.

Dyan Cannon Grant testified that her husband repeatedly used LSD, raged against her, constantly criticized her behavior. The trial was no comedy.

Yet there were moments of humor. A psychiatrist who had briefly examined Grant was asked if he was aware that Grant was "one of the world's greatest actors." The reply: "I know that he is one of the world's most famous actors." The underscoring of "famous" brought laughter from spectators.

There was also humor in an exchange between the same psychiatrist and Mrs. Grant's attorney, Frank Belcher, who questioned him about Grant's alleged expounding of Freudian symbolism. The use of explicit terms evoked laughter, as did the doctor's comment that he saw nothing unusual in such beliefs—"It merely indicates that the subject has been exposed to a lot of psychiatric talk."

Another laugh came when Belcher inquired: "Do you think it unusual that when a man's beloved Los Angeles Dodgers lose a game he comments, 'It wasn't the players' fault; it was their wives'?"

Aside from such bits of levity, the Grant trial bore no resemblance to the star's courtroom aplenty as Miss Cannon told of life with Cary. There were bitter wrangling between opposing lawyers over matters from dentist bills to attorney fees.

The lawyers themselves seemed type-cast: Belcher, a folksy fellow full of outrage over Grant's conduct toward his client; three defense attorneys, ever vigilant for the interests of the millionaire star; Judge Robert A. Wenke, a recent appointee of Gov. Ronald Reagan and as young and handsome as a leading man.

Wenke said in his decision that dividing the Grants' young daughter Jennifer between her mother and father "would require the wisdom of Solomon, which the court does not profess to have." But he came up with a complicated formula by which Grant would be allowed to have his daughter visit him 60 days per year.

Such was the ending of the latest marital chapter of the four-times-wed star who achieved fatherhood at 62. Somehow it isn't the same as the ending of a Cary Grant movie.

Dear Editor:

I saw in the Columbus Dispatch the picture of the "Offspring" of the Logan Elm. I knew as soon as I saw the picture of the "Offspring" that it was not an American Elm, not even a Slippery Elm or a Rock Elm.

The Logan Elm was an American Elm. The "Offspring" has a trunk like a Hickory Nut Tree from the ground all the way up to its top. American Elm has no trunk but sends up a number of limbs like a giant water fountain. The Logan Elm has no terminal bud which grew to elongate the limb or which causes the tree to grow in height. The Apple Tree, Sugar Tree, Poplar Tree all have a terminal bud which adds growth each year to make the limbs longer and the tree higher or taller.

The Logan Elm and all American Elms gain height by a limb growing on the side of another limb. Each year the Logan Elm and all other American Elms reach height and length by growing a limb on the side of the last years growth of limb and each successive year grows a limb first on one side and then the other side of each successive years growth.

The "Offspring" has a terminal bud which grows and adds to the last years growth which increases the length of the limb or increases the height of the tree. You can see last year's growth on each limb of the Offspring. There is no such growth on the end of an American Elm or the Logan Elm when it lived.

In the last 10 or 12 years my wife and I have visited the Logan Elm Park each year preceding 1963 when the Logan Elm put out leaves for the last time.

In my humble judgment the "Offspring" is not an American Elm, not even a Slippery Elm or a Rock Elm. All three of these Elms grow widely in our part of Ohio.

I visited Logan Elm Park Sunday March 17, 1968. In my humble judgment the "Offspring" is not an American Elm, not even a Slippery Elm or a Rock Elm. It is a Hackberry tree. If the "Offspring" grows "Witches Brooms" which are a bunch of small sprouts on the ends of small limbs caused by a fungus which attack Hackberry trees then it has named itself.

Dear Editor:

I would like to say thanks and may God's richest blessings be upon all of you at the Christian Business Men's Committee of Circleville for bringing the Billy Graham movie "For Pete's Sake" to town.

Pickaway County is very fortunate to have a group of Christians who are concerned about the spiritual welfare of the young and adults.

In this day of rioting and unrest with everyone searching for meaning in life, may we all turn to God's Holy Word as these men have and search for it until we find it. God has given us all life but until we forsake sin and accept Jesus Christ as our own personal Lord and Savior we will not find this true joy and peace for which we are all searching.

Each Saturday morning at 6:45 these men meet at Noel's King Boy North. Any interested man is invited to attend these meetings. If anyone who saw "For Pete's Sake" and feels God has spoken to them would go out to the meeting they could share the good news with these laymen or if they need spiritual help, I'm sure they would help them.

Saturday these men are going to show "The Restless Ones" movie to the Fairfield School for Boys at Lancaster. Let's all support these laymen by our prayers and any other way we can as they continue to serve our community and our Lord.

May God bless all of you in all that you do.

The greatest flood ever known in local history, struck this area. The Scioto River reached 24 feet, 2 inches.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Some Guys Just Don't Grow Up

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to Meyer for three years. He's short, fat and bald, but he thinks he's God's gift to women. This is my second marriage and his fourth. I am 55 and Meyer claims he's 63, but I'm sure he's closer to 70.

For the last year Meyer has been chasing young girls. Believe me, he is no lady-killer but he has plenty of money which explains why he can get a different young girl every night. He goes around in public with his girl friends and has even brought them to our apartment, knowing I will come home and catch him. He came right out and asked me to divorce him, but he is not getting rid of me so easy.

I am too old to work again. I told him I made a bad deal but I'm willing to sit with it. Am I wrong? I am really satisfied with things as they are, as I don't bother him and he don't bother me.

STANDING PAT IN MANHATTAN
DEAR STANDING: Yours is a very strange marriage, but to each his own. Tell Meyer to quit chasing young girls before he drops dead. And if he wants a divorce in New York, he'll have to catch YOU.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our twenties, have been married over a year, and are expecting our first child soon.

My husband works out of town six nights a week, and Sunday is our only day together, and we like to spend it alone.

Here's our problem: We have two friends, a young engaged couple who come to visit us EVERY Sunday. If we aren't home when they arrive, they wait for us outside in their car.

We have hinted and tried to tell them in every polite way we know that they have worn out their welcome, but they don't seem to understand. Last Sunday when they came, I was lying down as I didn't feel well. My husband told them this at the door, but they just said, "That's too bad," and they barged in anyway, took off their coats, and stayed all day visiting with my husband.

Abby, we are at the end of our rope with these people. We hate to hurt their feelings, but what do we do now? They say we are the only friends they have.

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: Don't worry about hurting the "feelings" of those who show such an appalling lack of consideration for yours. "Polite" talk, and hints won't help. TELL them in plain language that when you want company, you will call them—and to please discontinue their visits until then. If you lose their "friendship" (this is a friendship?) you haven't lost much.

DEAR ABBY: Recently someone wrote in blaming his mother for not having FORCED him to continue with his music lessons.

My father has taught music for 35 years, and here are a few of his ideas on the subject:

Never force music on a child who has no interest in it. Music should be enjoyed; don't spoil a child's pleasure as a potential member of an audience. Listening is an art too.

Trying to teach your child to play the instrument you yourself play is like trying to teach your own wife to drive a car. Ask the school music teacher if he gives private lessons. If not, he will be able to recommend someone who does.

If you love the violin and your child wants to play the sax, rent him a sax. Most music stores rent instruments, and some schools lend them. (Don't invest good money in an expensive instrument "hoping" your child will learn to like it. Find out first.)

Give him privacy to practice, and never laugh at his mistakes.

And last, but most important, encourage him by attending any recitals he happens to be in.

A home full of music can't be all bad. The family that plays together stays together.

The School Board Member

By FRITZ F. JACOBS, Superintendent

Members of boards of education have the responsibility of providing adequate school opportunity for the youth of Ohio. These people in their respective communities are looked to for leadership and service in the development and maintenance of the type of educational program which will best serve the community and its children. Following are some typical questions and answers regarding board membership.

1. How are candidates for membership on the board of education of a city, local or exempted village school district nominated?

Nomination is made only by petition signed by 25 qualified electors of the school district, or not less than one per cent of the number of electors who voted for governor at the next preceding election for the office of governor in the school district, whichever is the greater; provided that no petition shall contain more than twice the minimum number of signatures required by law. The nomination papers must be filed with the board of elections not later than 4 p. m. of the 90th day before the November election.

2. Where and how are board members elected? They are elected on a non-partisan ballot on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November, in the odd numbered years.

3. What shall be the term of office? The term of office shall be for four years and until a successor is elected and qualified.

4. When does the term of office begin? The term of office shall begin on the first Monday in January after election.

5. How much is the board member paid? In Circleville the board member serves without any compensation. The law permits the payment of $20 per meeting not exceeding 12 meetings in any one year.

6. Is the school board member a local or a state officer? Education is a function of the state government, and a school board member, therefore, is an officer of the state.

7. To whom is the school board member responsible? To the state. Each board functions as an agency of the state in the educational program of the school district.

To the people. In addition to his duties to the state, the school board member is also responsible to the people. He is elected by the electors of the district. The people should be consulted and their will observed insofar as their will reflects the children's interests and the district's ability to provide educational opportunities.

9. Does the school board member have authority outside the regular board meeting? The board of education is considered a legal entity and the individual has no authority except when sitting as a member of the board.

10. What things are members of boards of education prohibited from doing? (1) No member in any school district shall be eligible to appointment as school dentist, physician, or nurse.

(2) No member can at the same time be the county prosecuting attorney or the city solicitor.

(3) No member can vote in the making of a contract with a person as a teacher or instructor in the public school to whom he or she is related as father, brother, mother or sister. The "in-law" relationship is not included in this prohibition.

(4) No member shall have, directly or indirectly, any pecuniary interest in any contract of the board or be employed for compensation by the board of which he is a member, except as clerk.

(5) No member shall accept a reward, gift, or a reduction in price for favoring, school, of a textbook, map chart, or any other school supply.

What personal qualifications are desirable in a school board member? The following personal qualifications are deemed desirable in board members: (1) belief in public schools, (2) willingness to learn, (3) willingness to cooperate, (4) honesty; (5) sincerity (6) ability to withstand criticism, (7) sense of responsibility, (8) ability to get things done (9) a progressive hopeful outlook.

Next week Part II will be presented.

Set New Attack Against Cancer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A new line of attack against cancer—starving the tumorous mass by cutting off its blood supply—is reported by a research scientist.

Dr. Melvin Greenblatt of the Chicago Medical School said studies with hamsters indicate tumors make a chemical which signals surrounding parts of the body to grow new blood vessels to feed them.

"If we can identify the substance, it may be possible to produce antibodies against it," he told an American Cancer Society symposium for science writers Sunday. "This would interrupt the chemical signal, stop the growth of new blood vessels and thus starve the tumor."

Man Succumbs To Bullet Wound

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A wound suffered in a scuffle over a small caliber gun Friday claimed the life Sunday of James Scott Jr., 20, Columbus.

Police said Scott was one of three men injured Friday when the gun went off. Maurice Pope and James E. Gamble, both 22, suffered minor wounds.

Wallace Backers Hold Meetings

CLEVELAND (AP) — The "Wallace for President" organization held the first of a series of neighborhood meetings on Cleveland's East Side Sunday and urged supporters to work to collect signatures on petitions to get the name of George C. Wallace on the November ballot in Ohio.

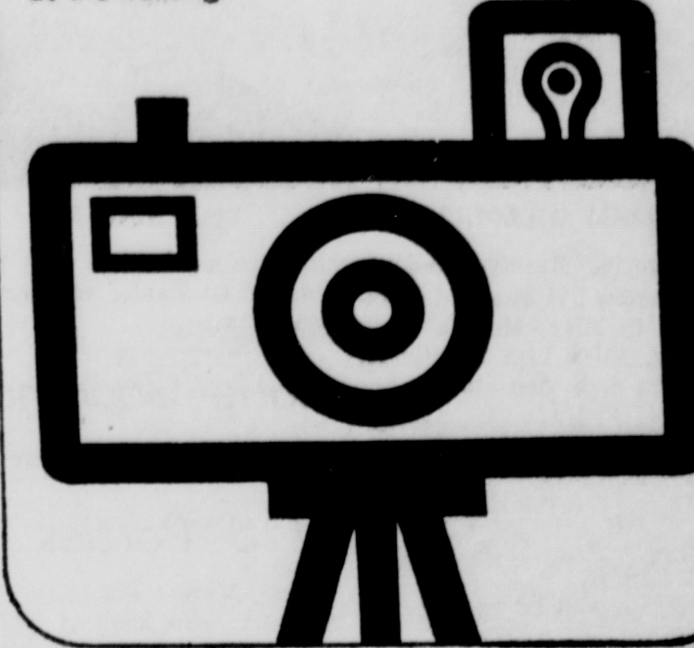

Although Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has said Feb. 7 was the deadline for filing the necessary petitions, the Wallace organization launched a drive for 433,100 signatures. Wallace supporters contend they have until Aug. 7 to file petitions.

Freak Wound Proves Minor

POWELLSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Tavern owner James Madison Keemer, 50, shot Saturday night during an argument with a customer, appeared to be dead and an undertaker was called.

But signs of life were detected and Keemer was taken to a hospital, where a doctor discovered the bullet had passed through his body without apparent damage to any internal organs. The doctor applied two small bandages and Keemer was released.

Copper Pacts Are Ratified; Still No Work

Local Disputes Keep Employees Out of Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — All four of the nation's giant copper producers have now reached tentative wage-like agreements with their unions but it still is not known when thousands of workers will return to their jobs, ending an eight-month strike.

Anaconda Co. and American Smelting & Refining Co., announced Sunday tentative settlements covering more than 15,000 strikers. But they said local issues still must be ironed out at their 28 mines and factories spread over a 14-state area.

In addition, ratification of the new pacts has yet to be voted upon by 15,000 Anaconda-American Smelting workers or by 10,000 others at Kennecott Copper Corp.

Contributing to the uncertainty of when production will be resumed on a wide scale, settlements also must be reached covering another 10,000 workers at Kennecott and Anaconda plants.

A total of 26 unions a wide variety of skilled jobs are involved in the complex strike.

"I don't know when they're going back to work," said an industry spokesman after the new agreements were announced.

The fourth big producer, Phelps Dodge, reached agreement last week with 6,500 workers and they are the only strikers back on the job at major plants. Several smaller firms settled earlier with a total of about 10,000 employees.

Accident Fatal
HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The Butler County Sheriff's Office said Arthur N. Brown, 46, Hamilton, was killed Saturday when a camping trailer under which he was working fell on him.

THINK OF ALL THE THINGS YOU CAN DO WITH THE MONEY YOU SAVE. GAS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Some Guys Just Don't Grow Up

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to Meyer for three years. He's short, fat and bald, but he thinks he's God's gift to women. This is my second marriage and his fourth. I am 55 and Meyer claims he's 63, but I'm sure he's closer to 70.

For the last year Meyer has been chasing young girls. Believe me, he is no lady-killer but he has plenty of money which explains why he can get a different young girl every night. He goes around in public with his girl friends and has even brought them to our apartment, knowing I will come home and catch him. He came right out and asked me to divorce him, but he is not getting rid of me so easy.

I am too old to work again. I told him I made a bad deal but I'm willing to sit with it. Am I wrong? I am really satisfied with things as they are, as I don't bother him and he don't bother me.

STANDING PAT IN MANHATTAN
DEAR STANDING: Yours is a very strange marriage, but to each his own. Tell Meyer to quit chasing young girls before he drops dead. And if he wants a divorce in New York, he'll have to catch YOU.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our twenties, have been married over a year, and are expecting our first child soon.

My husband works out of town six nights a week, and Sunday is our only day together, and we like to spend it alone.

Here's our problem: We have two friends, a young engaged couple who come to visit us EVERY Sunday. If we aren't home when they arrive, they wait for us outside in their car.

We have hinted and tried to tell them in every polite way we know that they have worn out their welcome, but they don't seem to understand. Last Sunday when they came, I was lying down as I didn't feel well. My husband told them this at the door, but they just said, "That's too bad," and they barged in anyway, took off their coats, and stayed all day visiting with my husband.

Abby, we are at the end of our rope with these people. We hate to hurt their feelings, but what do we do now? They say we are the only friends they have.

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: Don't worry about hurting the "feelings" of those who show such an appalling lack of consideration for yours. "Polite" talk, and hints won't help. TELL them in plain language that when you want company, you will call them—and to please discontinue their visits until then. If you lose their "friendship" (this is a "friendship") you haven't lost much.

DEAR ABBY: Recently someone wrote in blaming his mother for not having FORCED him to continue with his music lessons.

My father has taught music for 35 years, and here are a few of his ideas on the subject:

Never force music on a child who has no interest in it. Music should be enjoyed; don't spoil a child's pleasure as a potential member of an audience. Listening is an art too.

Trying to teach your child to play the instrument you yourself play is like trying to teach your own wife to drive a car. Ask the school music teacher if he gives private lessons. If not, he will be able to recommend someone who does.

If you love the violin and your child wants to play the sax, rent him a sax. Most music stores rent instruments, and some schools lend them. (Don't invest good money in an expensive instrument "hoping" your child will learn to like it. Find out first.)

Give him privacy to practice, and never laugh at his mistakes.

And last, but most important, encourage him by attending any recitals he happens to be in.

A home full of music can't be all bad. The family that plays together stays together.

The School Board Member

By FRITZ F. JACOBS, Superintendent

Members of boards of education have the responsibility of providing adequate school opportunity for the youth of Ohio. These people in their respective communities are looked to for leadership and service in the development and maintenance of the type of educational program which will best serve the community and its children. Following are some typical questions and answers regarding board membership.

1. How are candidates for membership on the board of education of a city, local or exempted village school district nominated?

Nomination is made only by petition signed by 25 qualified electors of the school district, or not less than one per cent of the number of electors who voted for governor at the next preceding election for the office of governor in the school district, whichever is the greater; provided that no petition shall contain more than twice the minimum number of signatures required by law. The nomination papers must be filed with the board of elections not later than 4 p. m. of the 90th day before the November election.

2. Where and how are board members elected? They are elected on a non-partisan ballot on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November, in the odd numbered years.

3. What shall be the term of office? The term of office shall be for four years and until a successor is elected and qualified.

4. When does the term of office begin? The term of office shall begin on the first Monday in January after election.

5. How much is the board member paid? In Circleville the board member serves without any compensation. The law permits the payment of $20 per meeting not exceeding 12 meetings in any one year.

6. Is the school board member a local or a state officer? Education is a function of the state government, and a school board member, therefore, is an officer of the state.

7. To whom is the school board member responsible? To the state. Each board functions as an agency of the state in the educational program of the school district.

To the people. In addition to his duties to the state, the school board member is also responsible to the people. He is elected by the electors of the district. The people should be consulted and their will observed insofar as their will reflects the children's interests and the district's ability to provide educational opportunities.

9. Does the school board member have authority outside the regular board meeting? The board of education is considered a legal entity and the individual has no authority except when sitting as a member of the board.

9. Should business of the school board be discussed outside the board meeting? The member will find it advantageous to seek information outside the board meetings, but he should refrain from discussing confidential matters with anyone not in a responsible position. It will be impossible for the member to represent the public adequately if he does not undertake to discover public opinion on matters to be discussed at the board meeting. However, he will be equally in error if he compromises the board or school officials by conversation about matters best kept as a matter of board record.

Set New Attack Against Cancer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A new line of attack against cancer—starving the tumorous mass by cutting off its blood supply—is reported by a research scientist.

Dr. Melvin Greenblatt of the Chicago Medical School said studies with hamsters indicate tumors make a chemical which signals surrounding parts of the body to grow new blood vessels to feed them.

"If we can identify the substance, it may be possible to produce antibodies against it," he told an American Cancer Society symposium for science writers Sunday. "This would interrupt the chemical signal, stop the growth of new blood vessels and thus starve the tumor."

(4) No member shall have, directly or indirectly, any pecuniary interest in any contract of the board or be employed for compensation by the board of which he is a member, except as clerk.

(5) No member shall accept a reward, gift, or a reduction in price for favoring, school, of a textbook, map chart, or any other school supply.

What personal qualifications are desirable in a school board member? The following personal qualifications are deemed desirable in board members: (1) belief in public schools. (2) willingness to learn. (3) willingness to cooperate. (4) honesty; (5) sincerity (6) ability to withstand criticism. (7) sense of responsibility. (8) ability to get things done (9) a progressive hopeful outlook.

Next week Part II will be presented.

Wallace Backers Hold Meetings

CLEVELAND (AP) — The "Wallace for President" organization held the first of a series of neighborhood meetings on Cleveland's East Side Sunday and urged supporters to work to collect signatures on petitions to get the name of George C. Wallace on the November ballot in Ohio.

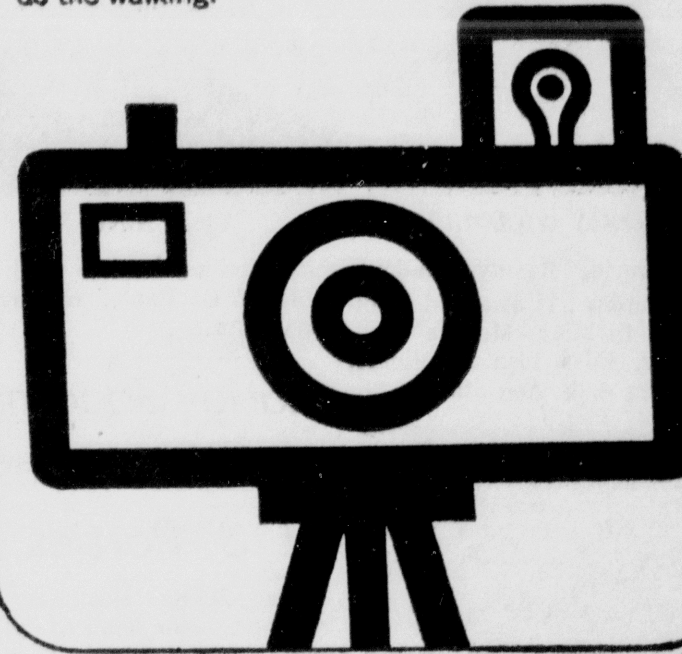

Although Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has said Feb. 7 was the deadline for filing the necessary petitions, the Wallace organization launched a drive for 433,100 signatures. Wallace supporters contend they have until Aug. 7 to file petitions.

Freak Wound Proves Minor

POWELLSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Tavern owner James Madison Keemer, 50, shot Saturday night during an argument with a customer, appeared to be dead and an undertaker was called.

But signs of life were detected and Keemer was taken to a hospital, where a doctor discovered the bullet had passed through his body without apparent damage to any internal organs. The doctor applied two small bandages and Keemer was released.

Copper Pacts Are Ratified; Still No Work

Local Disputes Keep Employees Out of Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — All four of the nation's giant copper producers have now reached tentative wage-like agreements with their unions but it still is not known when thousands of workers will return to their jobs, ending an eight-month strike.

Anaconda Co. and American Smelting & Refining Co., announced Sunday tentative settlements covering more than 15,000 strikers. But they said local issues still must be ironed out at their 28 mines and factories spread over a 14-state area.

In addition, ratification of the new pacts has yet to be voted upon by 15,000 Anaconda-American Smelting workers or by 10,000 others at Kennecott Copper Corp.

Contributing to the uncertainty of when production will be resumed on a wide scale, settlements also must be reached covering another 10,000 workers at Kennecott and Anaconda plants.

A total of 26 unions a wide variety of skilled jobs are involved in the complex strike.

"I don't know when they're going back to work," said an industry spokesman after the new agreements were announced.

The fourth big producer, Phelps Dodge, reached agreement last week with 6,500 workers and they are the only strikers back on the job at major plants. Several smaller firms settled earlier with a total of about 10,000 employees.

Accident Fatal
HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The Butler County Sheriff's Office said Arthur N. Brown, 46, Hamilton, was killed Saturday when a camping trailer under which he was working fell on him.

Woman Slays Prospective In-Laws

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) —Murder charges were expected to be filed today against a woman in the shootings of her son's prospective parents-in-law.

The Belmont County Sheriff's office said Sunday it will file the charges against Pauline Porter of Belmont County.

Victims were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Edwards of Barnesville, who were shot to death Saturday as they sat in their car outside the Porter home.

Deputies said the Edwards' and their daughter, Cathy, 19, had gone to the Porter home to pick up Mrs. Porter and her son, William, also 19.

Together, they had planned to go to St. Clairsville so Cathy and William could obtain a marriage license. William told deputies his mother asked him to go back to the house to get her billfold.

William said he came out of the house and found Cathy's parents shot and his mother aiming a pistol at Cathy. Porter grabbed the girl and stood between her and his mother until getting her into the house. He notified deputies.

No motive was established, deputies said.

TOPS Club Meets

The Circleville TOPS Club will meet 6:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Red Cross Office, 167 Watt St. During Lent, no special programs have been planned.

Minister Is Living in Two Worlds

WASHINGTON (AP) — He lives and works in two worlds, and tries to bring them closer together.

On Sundays he is the Rev. Jesse F. Anderson Jr., a minister in an all-white Episcopal church in an all-white neighborhood.

On weekdays he is "Jessie" to hordes of poor kids in a predominantly Negro neighborhood of Washington, where he runs a storefront mission called the Southeast Enrichment Center.

He is a Negro. His center, shabby outside but bright and spotless inside, will find you a part-time job to keep you in school, lend you books, give you a place to study, provide a game of pool or table tennis, help out if you get pregnant, or get in trouble with the police.

There are likely to be 75 kids there any night.

Father Anderson—the kids call him that too, if he happens to have his clerical collar on—is 30. He looks younger when bicycling to work or, clad in a sweatshirt, tossing a football with the teen-agers. He recently grew a hippie-style beard.

He heads the Neighborhood Advisory Council, directs the summer day camp program, fights for federal and city funds for his Teen Center, Odd Job Center and other causes, and teaches night classes in sociology at Southeastern University.

At the mission he assembles Negroes and whites from the opposite sides of the city for "dialogues" that run through dinner-time and evening, once a week for 15 weeks. Then a new series is begun, bringing together more strangers from his two worlds.

For St. Patrick's Episcopal church, miles away in a setting of handsome homes and shade trees, the Rev. Mr. Anderson is an answer to questions that bother many an all-white congregation: How can we help out? How do we get involved?

St. Patrick's raised $45,000 to launch and support for three years a one-man inner city mission.

It interviewed eight young white and Negro priests in 1966, then invited the Rev. Mr. Anderson to come from Philadelphia to man the mission, and to

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, young as it is, already has built some traditions. One of them is the "highlights" program.

Sunday night TV presented the annual highlights of an ice show that plays around the country. Next Friday there will be highlights of a circus making its tour.

If you've seen one ice show or one circus, you have pretty well seen them all, yet there is a fascination to both that time cannot dim—which comes through on the tube.

NBC's hour-long ice special had nothing unusual to present Sunday but was graceful, tuneful and colorful, with here and there the required touch of broad comedy.

As the seasons roll by the only thing that seems to change in ice shows is the music, the costumes and the hosts. The music is more likely to be from the latest Broadway hits than "The Skater's Waltz."

Over the seasons and on all three networks, the ice shows have all taken much the same form, and even the hosts act the same—they arrive gingerly on skates and make jokes about how badly they skate.

NBC's "Highlights from the Ice Capades of '68" was really not much different from "Highlights from the Ice Capades of '67," except that the comedy team of Rowan and Martin, wobbly in the feet, were around in place of past hosts. In an effort to add a little more spice to the proceedings, Joanie Sommers was on hand for a couple of songs.

The special was one of only two mid-evening network programs that were not reruns. There was a repeat showing of ABC's movie, and on CBS The Smothers Brothers show and "Mission Impossible" were both around for a second time.

The other fresh show, NBC's "High Chaparral," was of interest primarily because of the appearance of Ramon Novarro, once an important silent movie star, playing a priest.

NBC has added two comedians as regulars to the summer series replacing the Dean Martin show. They are Paul Lynd and Sheeky Greene. Stars of the show will be Frank Sinatra Jr.

and Joey Heatherton.

The next CBS National Geographic special, on April 16, will be a story of Portuguese cod fishermen whose work takes them onto the seas for six months at a time. The show is called "The Loney Dorymen."

Recommended tonight: "Kiss Me Kate," ABC, 9:30-11 EST, Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence in an adaptation of Cole Porter's 20-year-old musical comedy hit.

Officials Admit Viet Corruption Stalls Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. aid officials cite corruption and a dearth of skilled South Vietnamese government personnel as major obstacles to winning "the other war" in Vietnam.

They said progress in pacification and redevelopment programs to bolster the South Vietnamese government's sway over the population will be hampered until the obstacles are removed.

The comments were included in an Agency for International Development progress report distributed to congressmen to back up AID's request for $480 million next fiscal year for the non-military side of the Vietnam effort.

The report makes no reference to an independent U.S. adviser's recommendations this month that AID abandon "weak-kneed and pussyfooting measures" and launch a strong campaign against corruption in South Vietnam.

Arrest 29 Persons In Narcotics Raid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police arrested 29 persons and confiscated weapons and a quantity of marijuana in a raid at a tavern where an organizational meeting of the Outlaws motorcycle club reportedly was being held.

Twenty-eight, including five women, were charged as suspicious persons at a place where narcotics allegedly were in use. They were released from city prison Sunday under $200 bond each.

St. Patrick's members work with the Rev. Mr. Anderson, but he relies mainly on cooperation with other neighborhood agencies, including a Catholic mission.

His hardest job, the Rev. Mr. Anderson says, is explaining to well-to-do whites why the poor think and behave as they do.

He says "It's hard to understand, for instance, why it makes sense to some girls to have babies—and several of them—out of wedlock."

"It isn't just for the extra welfare money but almost from a sense of loneliness—of wanting to have someone or something to care for and be loved by."

The next meeting will be April 18, at the church with Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Miller in charge of devotions.

All members are invited to attend.

Woman Slays Prospective In-Laws

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Murder charges were expected to be filed today against a woman in the shootings of her son's prospective parents-in-law.

The Belmont County Sheriff's office said Sunday it will file the charges against Pauline Porter of Belmont County.

Victims were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Edwards of Barnesville, who were shot to death Saturday as they sat in their car outside the Porter home.

Deputies said the Edwards' and their daughter, Cathy, 19, had gone to the Porter home to pick up Mrs. Porter and her son, William, also 19.

Together, they had planned to go to St. Clairsville so Cathy and William could obtain a marriage license. William told deputies his mother asked him to go back to the house to get her billfold.

William said he came out of the house and found Cathy's parents shot and his mother aiming a pistol at Cathy. Porter grabbed the girl and stood between her and his mother until getting her into the house. He notified deputies.

No motive was established, deputies said.

TOPS Club Meets

The Circleville TOPS Club will meet 6:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Red Cross Office, 167 Watt St. During Lent, no special programs have been planned.

Minister Is Living in Two Worlds

WASHINGTON (AP) — He lives and works in two worlds, and tries to bring them closer together.

On Sundays he is the Rev. Jesse F. Anderson Jr., a minister in an all-white Episcopal church in an all-white neighborhood.

On weekdays he is "Jessie" to hordes of poor kids in a predominantly Negro neighborhood of Washington, where he runs a storefront mission called the Southeast Enrichment Center.

He is a Negro. His center, shabby outside but bright and spotless inside, will find you a part-time job to keep you in school, lend you books, give you a place to study, provide a game of pool or table tennis, help out if you get pregnant, or get in trouble with the police.

There are likely to be 75 kids there any night.

Father Anderson—the kids call him that too, if he happens to have his clerical collar on—is 30. He looks younger when bicycling to work or, clad in a sweatshirt, tossing a football with the teen-agers. He recently grew a hippie-style beard.

He heads the Neighborhood Advisory Council, directs the summer day camp program, fights for federal and city funds for his Teen Center, Odd Job Center and other causes, and teaches night classes in sociology at Southeastern University.

At the mission he assembles Negroes and whites from the opposite sides of the city for "dialogues" that run through dinner-time and evening, once a week for 15 weeks. Then a new series is begun, bringing together more strangers from his two worlds.

For St. Patrick's Episcopal church, miles away in a setting of handsome homes and shade trees, the Rev. Mr. Anderson is an answer to questions that bother many an all-white congregation: How can we help out? How do we get involved?

St. Patrick's raised $45,000 to launch and support for three years a one-man inner city mission.

It interviewed eight young white and Negro priests in 1966, then invited the Rev. Mr. Anderson to come from Philadelphia to man the mission, and to take his turn regularly in St. Patrick's pulpit.

One or two parishioners walked out the first time he appeared in the chancel. A few families canceled their pledges and left St. Patrick's. Now, says the Rev. Thomas D. Bowers, rector, some have come back, and membership and pledging have risen.

St. Patrick's members work with the Rev. Mr. Anderson, but he relies mainly on cooperation with other neighborhood agencies, including a Catholic mission.

His hardest job, the Rev. Mr. Anderson says, is explaining to well-to-do whites why the poor think and behave as they do.

He says "It's hard to understand, for instance, why it makes sense to some girls to have babies—and several of them—out of wedlock."

"It isn't just for the extra welfare money but almost from a sense of loneliness—of wanting to have someone or something to care for and be loved by."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, young as it is, already has built some traditions. One of them is the "highlights" program.

Sunday night TV presented the annual highlights of an ice show that plays around the country. Next Friday there will be highlights of a circus making its tour.

If you've seen one ice show or one circus, you have pretty well seen them all, yet there is a fascination to both that time cannot dim—which comes through on the tube.

NBC's hour-long ice special had nothing unusual to present Sunday but was graceful, tuneful and colorful, with here and there the required touch of broad comedy.

As the seasons roll by, the only thing that seems to change in ice shows is the music, the costumes and the hosts. The music is more likely to be from the latest Broadway hits than "The Skater's Waltz."

Over the seasons and on all three networks, the ice shows have all taken much the same form, and even the hosts act the same—they arrive gingerly on skates and make jokes about how badly they skate.

NBC's "Highlights from the Ice Capades of '68" was really not much different from "Highlights from the Ice Capades of '67," except that the comedy team of Rowan and Martin, wobbly in the feet, were around in place of past hosts. In an effort to add a little more spice to the proceedings, Joanie Sommers was on hand for a couple of songs.

The special was one of only two mid-evening network programs that were not reruns. There was a repeat showing of ABC's movie, and on CBS The Smothers Brothers show and "Mission Impossible" were both around for a second time.

The other fresh show, NBC's "High Chaparral," was of interest primarily because of the appearance of Ramon Novarro, once an important silent movie star, playing a priest.

NBC has added two comedians as regulars to the summer series replacing the Dean Martin show. They are Paul Lynd and Sheeky Greene. Stars of the show will be Frank Sinatra Jr.

and Joey Heatherton.

The next CBS National Geographic special, on April 16, will be a story of Portuguese cod fishermen whose work takes them onto the seas for six months at a time. The show is called "The Loney Dorymen."

Recommended tonight: "Kiss Me Kate," ABC, 9:30-11 EST, Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence in an adaptation of Cole Porter's 20-year-old musical comedy hit.

Officials Admit Viet Corruption Stalls Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. aid officials cite corruption and a dearth of skilled South Vietnamese government personnel as major obstacles to winning "the other war" in Vietnam.

They said progress in pacification and redevelopment programs to bolster the South Vietnamese government's sway over the population will be hampered until the obstacles are removed.

The comments were included in an Agency for International Development progress report distributed to congressmen to back up AID's request for $480 million next fiscal year for the non-military side of the Vietnam effort.

The report makes no reference to an independent U.S. adviser's recommendations this month that AID abandon "weak-kneed and pussyfooting measures" and launch a strong campaign against corruption in South Vietnam.

Dodgers Have Bad Memories Of 1967 Season

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Zoilo Versailles has unpleasant memories of 1967 in Minnesota, but his new Los Angeles teammates are trying hard to help him forget.

It's a kind of group therapy for the Dodgers. They, too, have been trying to forget 1967 all winter.

Versailles, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1965, struggled through the worst year of his career, batting just .200 for the Twins and wishing he were miles away from Minnesota.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, stumbled through their worst National League season in 62 years, finishing eighth after winning the pennant in 1966.

Now, Versailles is the Dodgers' shortstop, having come to Los Angeles with another disgruntled Twin, pitcher Jim Grant, in a winter trade that sent catcher John Roseboro and relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller to Minnesota. Zoilo can return the favor by plugging a big gap in the Dodgers' infield opened when shortstop Maury Wills was dealt to Pittsburgh last year.

Wills hit .302 for the Pirates while Bob Bailey and Gene Michael, picked up by Los Angeles in the deal, plodded home at .227 and .202, respectively.

They had plenty of company. Jim Lefebvre developed a power failure, sagging from 24 homers in 1966 to eight last year; Willie Davis fell from a .284 average to .257 and Ron Fairly plummeted from .288 to .220.

"It was almost like a plague," said Fairly. "There's only one thing about a season like that. It surely humbles you."

The rehabilitation of the Dodgers started with the Minnesota deal, picked up steam when catcher Tom Haller was obtained from San Francisco in exchange for Ron Hunt and progressed through a rigorous winter conditioning program that carried into spring training.

Walter Alston, dean of major league managers, is cautiously optimistic about the Dodgers' 1968 chances as he embarks on his 15th go-round. "We've filled a few holes," he said, "and we might bounce back a little higher than expected."

Pitching was, and still is, the big plus for the Dodgers. Claude Osteen, 17-17, Don Drysdale, 13-16, Don Sutton, 11-15, and Bill Singer, 12-8, are returning starters. Rookie Alan Foster also has earned a starting spot. Grant, 5-6 with the Twins, will start or relieve, or both.

Phil Regan and Jim Brewer head up the bullpen crew. Newcomers John Purdin, Mike Kekich, John Duff, Jack Billingham, Vincente Romo, Larry Staab and Leon Everitt, all impressive thus far, are battling for the remaining two or three spots.

Haller, .251 with the Giants, gets the nod at catcher, backed by Jeff Torborg and Jim Campanis. Wes Parker, .247, is at first base, with Lefebvre at second and Bailey at third. Davis, Fairly and Al Ferrara, .277, loom as the starting outfielders, with rookie Jim Fairey close behind.

Miami of Ohio Dominates Relays

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Miami of Ohio dominated the 15th annual Livingston Relays at Denison University Saturday, winning six of the 12 events. There were no team totals.

Miami's Ted Downing was voted the most outstanding performer. He won the high jump with a leap of seven feet.

Other Miami winners were Wayne Van Hooten, long jump, 22 ft. 1 in.; Art Sanders, 55-yard high hurdles, :06.7; and Les Smith, pole vault, 15 ft., 6 in. Miami also won the 2-mile relay in 7:56.3 and the mile relay in 3:27.

Bruins Win NCAA Crown; Alcindor Top Player

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Towering Lew Alcindor was named today as the outstanding player in the national collegiate basketball championships after leading UCLA to its fourth title in five years.

The Bruins crushed previously unbeaten Houston, 101-69, Friday night and then came back for a 78-55 triumph over North Carolina in the title game Saturday. The 7-foot-1½ Alcindor scored 53 points and hauled down 34 rebounds in the two games.

He is the fourth player in history to be voted the honor two years in succession. The others are Bob Kurland, Oklahoma State, 1945-46; Alex Groza, Kentucky, 1948-49; and Jerry Lucas, Ohio State, 1960-61.

Three other Bruins were named to the all-tournament team. With Alcindor on the select five were Mike Warren, Lucius Allen and Lynn Shackelford. The fifth man was North Carolina's Larry Miller. Player of the year Elvin Hayes of Houston failed to make it.

Shackelford was accorded the honor on the basis of his 17 points and great defensive play in the victory over Houston.

Allen and Warren set the tempo of the game early in the finale. Allen wound up with 30 points for the two games and was all over the court against the Tar Heels, stealing passes on the Bruins' full court zone press.

Warren was the court general, guiding the offense and keeping North Carolina's fine sophomore Charlie Scott fairly well bottled up.

But Alcindor was the real story. He tossed in 34 points. He blocked nine Tar Heel shots, five of them off the hand of 6-foot-10 Rusty Clark. And Lew even stole the ball at midcourt and dribbled in to score a crowd-raiser early in the second half.

In the game for third place, fired up Ohio State came from behind in the second half to beat Houston, 98-85, as burly Steve Howell scored 26 points.

Floyd Gambles; Leads Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd is trying to erase his image as a golfing playboy, but the 25-year-old Texan still likes to gamble.

The chunky bachelor took a one-shot lead into today's final round of the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament because of a gamble that paid off Sunday.

Floyd, who wiped out an eight-stroke deficit with a blazing 64, eagled the eighth hole after driving into the woods. He was 235 yards from the green, but he saw a six-foot opening between the trees and went for the hole with a three-wood.

The ball stopped 30 feet from the cup, and Floyd knocked in the putt for an eagle 3 on the par five hole.

Columbus East Cops Title As Ohio Class AA Champs

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All-winning Columbus East has its third state schoolboy basketball book today and the question is can anyone stop the Tigers from winning again next year.

The answer is an emphatic NO. If you ask Nick Connor and Ed Ratliff, the Tigers' brilliant 6-foot-5 juniors.

Both reached superstar proportions when No. 1 ranked East rallied in the fourth quarter to shade gallant Hamilton Garfield 64-60 in the Class AA title fray Saturday night.

Earlier, powerful Mansfield St. Peter's completely outclassed Springfield Local of Mahoning County 73-50 to annex the school's first Class A crown.

Connor drilled in 26 points leading the East attack and delivered a key tip in with four seconds remaining that sealed Garfield's fate.

Ratliff, as tough outside as Connor is underneath, lofted in a long set shot with 1:57 left that put the Tigers out front for good 60-58 after the gutsy Griffins had assumed a five-point advantage midway through the final period.

Coach Bob Hart's muscular wrecking crew, an overwhelming choice to cop the championship, had more than it bargained for against Hamilton's determined kids.

Twice, the gritty Griffins bounced back from eight point deficits and appeared headed for the upset of the year with their five-point bulge in the fourth quarter.

But East, which has lost only once in the past two seasons, roared back in true championship style to give the Capital City its second straight title.

Linden McKinley crushed Cleveland East Tech in the 1967 finale.

Finishing 24-0, East became only the 12th school in history to go through a season untarnished. Hamilton Taft last turned the feat, with a 27-0 record in 1962.

Lakers Top Chicago Bulls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bill Russell said he didn't have a good game. Jerry West said he hadn't realized he shot so well. Elgin Baylor didn't say a word.

Baylor didn't have to. His coach, Bill van Breda Kolff of the Los Angeles Lakers, said it all after the Lakers downed the Chicago Bulls 109-101 in the opening game of the best-of-7 Western Division playoff series.

In the opening game of the Eastern Division playoff in Boston, the Celtics topped Detroit Sunday 123-116 on the fine all-around play of Russell and the scoring of John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried.

In playoff action Saturday night, the New York Knicks and St. Louis Hawks each evened their series at 1-1. The Knicks beat the Eastern Division champs, Philadelphia, 128-117 in New York and at St. Louis, the Western Division champion Hawks topped San Francisco, 111-103.

SEBRING Race Clean Sweep

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Porsche's durable little cars left no room for argument about the finish of Sebring's 12 hours of endurance Saturday.

At the awards presentation Sunday, when it became official that Hans Herrmann of Germany and Jo Siffert of Switzerland were the winners in their Porsche prototype, there wasn't even a token protest.

Porsche didn't have any competition that could stand up around the clock and the 1-2 finish of the German team was almost a duplication of its 1-2-3 at Daytona Beach seven weeks earlier.

In the race for world points, Porsche is far out front with 18 going into the Brands Hatch race in England next month.

Vic Elford of England and Jochen Neerpasch of Germany, who won at Daytona, took second here.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—It looks like Vern Fuller has made the varsity.

"I'm convinced Fuller will be my second baseman because I'm convinced he can do the work . . . that he can make all the plays," Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark said Sunday.

That means three of the Indians' four infield positions are set—with Tony Horton at first and Max Alvis at third. Dark still has to name a shortstop.

East, Garfield Dominate Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus East and Hamilton Garfield dominated the Class AA all-tournament basketball team selected by a panel of sports writers.

The championship Tigers landed Nick Connor and Ed Ratliff on the team while brothers Payton and Willie Townsend of Garfield also were selected, along with Mel Foster of Lima Senior.

Receiving honorable mention were Paul Howard of Lima Senior, Howard Harris of Columbus East and Al Vilcheck of Euclid.

Sebring Race Clean Sweep

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Porsche's durable little cars left no room for argument about the finish of Sebring's 12 hours of endurance Saturday.

At the awards presentation Sunday, when it became official that Hans Herrmann of Germany and Jo Siffert of Switzerland were the winners in their Porsche prototype, there wasn't even a token protest.

Porsche didn't have any competition that could stand up around the clock and the 1-2 finish of the German team was almost a duplication of its 1-2-3 at Daytona Beach seven weeks earlier.

In the race for world points, Porsche is far out front with 18 going into the Brands Hatch race in England next month.

Vic Elford of England and Jochen Neerpasch of Germany, who won at Daytona, took second here.

Vern Fuller Set As Tribe Member

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — It looks like Vern Fuller has made the varsity.

"I'm convinced Fuller will be my second baseman because I'm convinced he can do the work... that he can make all the plays," Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark said Sunday.

That means three of the Indians' four infield positions are set—with Tony Horton at first and Max Alvis at third. Dark still has to name a shortstop.

Dodgers Have Bad Memories Of 1967 Season

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Zoilo Versailles has unpleasant memories of 1967 in Minnesota, but his new Los Angeles teammates are trying hard to help him forget.

It's a kind of group therapy for the Dodgers. They, too, have been trying to forget 1967 all winter.

Versailles, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1965, struggled through the worst year of his career, batting just .200 for the Twins and wishing he were miles away from Minnesota.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, stumbled through their worst National League season in 62 years, finishing eighth after winning the pennant in 1966.

Now, Versailles is the Dodgers' shortstop, having come to Los Angeles with another disgruntled Twin, pitcher Jim Grant, in a winter trade that sent catcher John Roseboro and relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller to Minnesota. Zoilo can return the favor by plugging a big gap in the Dodgers' infield opened when shortstop Maury Wills was dealt to Pittsburgh last year.

Wills hit .302 for the Pirates while Bob Bailey and Gene Michael, picked up by Los Angeles in the deal, plodded home at .227 and .202, respectively.

They had plenty of company. Jim Lefebvre developed a power failure, sagging from 24 homers in 1966 to eight last year; Willie Davis fell from a .284 average to .257 and Ron Fairly plummeted from .288 to .220.

"It was almost like a plague," said Fairly. "There's only one thing about a season like that. It surely humbles you."

The rehabilitation of the Dodgers started with the Minnesota deal, picked up steam when catcher Tom Haller was obtained from San Francisco in exchange for Ron Hunt and progressed through a rigorous winter conditioning program that carried into spring training.

Walter Alston, dean of major league managers, is cautiously optimistic about the Dodgers' 1968 chances as he embarks on his 15th go-round. "We've filled a few holes," he said, "and we might bounce back a little higher than expected."

Pitching was, and still is, the big plus for the Dodgers. Claude Osteen, 17-17, Don Drysdale, 13-16, Don Sutton, 11-15, and Bill Singer, 12-8, are returning starters. Rookie Alan Foster also has earned a starting spot. Grant, 5-6 with the Twins, will start or relieve, or both.

Phil Regan and Jim Brewer head up the bullpen crew. Newcomers John Purdin, Mike Kekich, John Duffy, Jack Billingham, Vincente Romo, Larry Staab and Leon Everitt, all impressive thus far, are battling for the remaining two or three spots.

Haller, .251 with the Giants, gets the nod at catcher, backed by Jeff Torborg and Jim Campanis. Wes Parker, .247, is at first base, with Lefebvre at second and Bailey at third. Davis, Fairly and Al Ferrara, .277, loom as the starting outfielders, with rookie Jim Fairey close behind.

East, Garfield Dominate Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus East and Hamilton Garfield dominated the Class AA all-tournament basketball team selected by a panel of sports writers.

The championship Tigers landed Nick Connor and Ed Ratleff on the team while brothers Payton and Willie Townsend of Garfield also were selected, along with Mel Foster of Lima Senior.

Receiving honorable mention were Paul Howard of Lima Senior, Howard Harris of Columbus East and Al Vilcheck of Euclid.

Bruins Win NCAA Crown; Alcindor Top Player

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Towering Lew Alcindor was named today as the outstanding player in the national collegiate basketball championships after leading UCLA to its fourth title in five years.

The Bruins crushed previously unbeaten Houston, 101-69, Friday night and then came back for a 78-55 triumph over North Carolina in the title game Saturday. The 7-foot-1½ Alcindor scored 53 points and hauled down 34 rebounds in the two games.

He is the fourth player in history to be voted the honor two years in succession. The others are Bob Kurland, Oklahoma State, 1945-46; Alex Groza, Kentucky, 1948-49; and Jerry Lucas, Ohio State, 1960-61.

Three other Bruins were named to the all-tournament team. With Alcindor on the select five were Mike Warren, Lucius Allen and Lynn Shackelford. The fifth man was North Carolina's Larry Miller. Player of the year Elvin Hayes of Houston failed to make it.

Shackelford was accorded the honor on the basis of his 17 points and great defensive play in the victory over Houston.

Allen and Warren set the tempo of the game early in the finale. Allen wound up with 30 points for the two games and was all over the court against the Tar Heels, stealing passes on the Bruins' full court zone press.

Warren was the court general, guiding the offense and keeping North Carolina's fine sophomore Charlie Scott fairly well bottled up.

But Alcindor was the real story. He tossed in 34 points. He blocked nine Tar Heel shots, five of them off the hand of 6-foot-10 Rusty Clark. And Lew even stole the ball at midcourt and dribbled in to score a crowd-raiser early in the second half.

In the game for third place, fired up Ohio State came from behind in the second half to beat Houston, 98-85, as burly Steve Howell scored 26 points.

Floyd Gambles; Leads Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd is trying to erase his image as a golfing playboy, but the 25-year-old Texan still likes to gamble.

The chunky bachelor took a one-shot lead into today's final round of the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament because of a gamble that paid off Sunday.

Floyd, who wiped out an eight-stroke deficit with a blazing 64, eagled the eighth hole after driving into the woods. He was 235 yards from the green, but he saw a six-foot opening between the trees and went for the hole with a three-wood.

The ball stopped 30 feet from the cup, and Floyd knocked in the putt for an eagle 3 on the par five hole.

Columbus East Cops Title As Ohio Class AA Champs

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All-winning Columbus East has its third state schoolboy basketball book today and the question is can anyone stop the Tigers from winning again next year.

The answer is an emphatic NO. If you ask Nick Connor and Ed Ratleff, the Tigers' brilliant 6-foot-5 juniors.

Both reached superstar proportions when No. 1 ranked East rallied in the fourth quarter to shade gallant Hamilton Garfield 64-60 in the Class AA title fray Saturday night.

Earlier, powerful Mansfield St. Peter's completely outclassed Springfield Local of Mahoning County 73-50 to annex the school's first Class A crown.

Connor drilled in 26 points leading the East attack and delivered a key tip in with four seconds remaining that sealed Garfield's fate.

Ratleff, as tough outside as Connor is underneath, lofted in a long set shot with 1:57 left that put the Tigers out front for good 60-58 after the gutty Griffins had assumed a five-point advantage midway through the final period.

Coach Bob Hart's muscular wrecking crew, an overwhelming choice to cop the championship, had more than it bargained for against Hamilton's determined kids.

Twice, the gritty Griffins bounced back from eight point deficits and appeared headed for the upset of the year with their five-point bulge in the fourth quarter.

But East, which has lost only once in the past two seasons, roared back in true championship style to give the Capital City its second straight title. Linden McKinley crushed Cleveland East Tech in the 1967 finale.

Finishing 24-0, East became only the 12th school in history to go through a season untarnished. Hamilton Taft last turned the feat, with a 27-0 record in 1962.

PUBLIC AUCTION

WHERE: on Sixteenth Road, 2½ miles east of Stoutsville, 1½ miles west of Tilton and approximately ten miles from Circleville.

WHEN: Saturday, March 30, 1968, starting at twelve o'clock noon. Furniture will sell first. Real estate will sell at 2:00 p. m.

WHAT: Real Estate; Farm Machinery; Furniture; Ponies.

REASON FOR SELLING: Due to the death of my husband, Robert Speakman, I will offer all my equipment, etc., as well as my farm for sale at public auction. I have purchased a trailer and will be moving into it.

The farm which consists of thirty-five acres, all tillable, with a five-room frame house with furnace and bath and modern kitchen. There is one small barn, and corn crib, cemented feed lot, and loafing shed. This is a nice little stock farm with ample water supply. There is water in feed lot and barn, and a small stream runs across one corner of farm. All line fences are as good as new, with cross fences in fair condition. The farm is appraised at $16,500.00, and cannot sell for less than $14,500.00.
Balance of present mortgage may be assumed by responsible person.

Complete line of farm machinery. Complete line of household furnishings. 5 ponies to sell. 1963 Chevrolet ¾ ton, low mileage and new tires.

Sale of Real Estate will be conducted by E. R. BENNETT, REALTOR.

Terms of Sale: Cash for everything, except for the farm which will be 10% down with balance due on delivery of deed.
Arrangements will be made with the buyer on day of sale about plowing the ground for crops.

Pavletich Leads Reds to Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Don Pavletich drove in four runs with two homers and a single to spark the Cincinnati Reds to a come-from-behind, 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

The Cardinals opened quickly with two runs and after Pavletich's single in the second made it 3-1 with an unearned run in the fifth.

Pavletich evened the score in the sixth, but the Cardinals got two more in the seventh to bring the score 5-3.

Pavletich then hit a tie-scoring homer in the eighth, and a ninth-inning triple by Bob Rauman, Fred Whitfield's pinch double and Tony Perez's single produced the tying and winning runs off loser Jack Lamabe. George Culver was the victor.

This is the kind of exhibition baseball season it's been for Manager Bill Rigney—about the only thing he's had to comment on lately is what pitcher has looked best in shutting out his California Angels.

So far, it's been San Francisco southpaw Ray Sadecki.

"That's the best we've seen this spring," Rigney said of Sadecki's pitching Sunday in the Giants' 4-0 victory over the Angels, who have been blanked in three of their last four games.

"I can see why they were excited about him last year," Rigney said after Sadecki scattered four hits over nine innings. "He must have pitched that way toward the end of the season."

Sadecki finished strongly for a 12-8 record in 1967.

Three of San Francisco's runs

Sunday came on Willie McCovey's homer off George Brunet in the fourth inning.

In other games, Houston drubbed Oakland 11-4 for its eighth straight victory. Cincinnati edged St. Louis 6-5, Washington overcame Philadelphia 4-2, Cleveland nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4, Detroit blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Baltimore stopped the New York Mets 3-0, the Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota 6-5, Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 4-0 and Boston whipped Atlanta 6-2.

While Sadecki was making a baseball look like a marble to the Angels, it continued to appear the size of a grapefruit to Sal Bando and Don Pavletich.

Bando hit his eighth homer of the spring for Oakland, and Pavletich belted his fourth and fifth for Cincinnati.

The two-run shot by Bando, who didn't hit any homers in 47 games with the Athletics last year, couldn't compensate for a sour fielding performance by his teammates. They committed four errors, two in the seventh inning when Houston scored five runs.

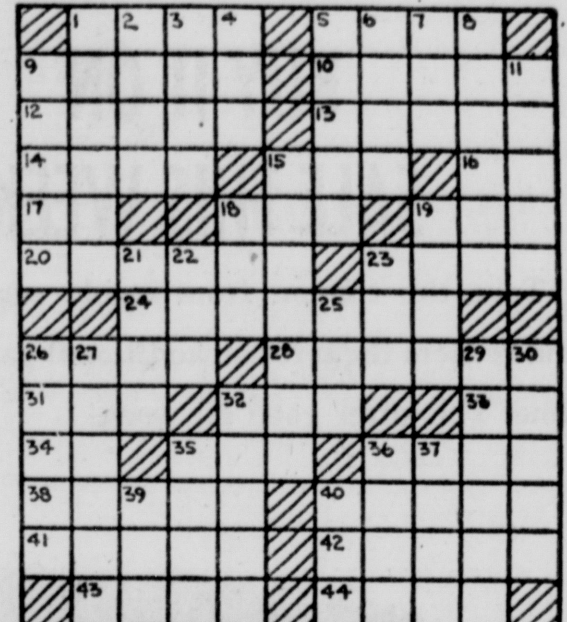

Washington beat Philadelphia by scoring three runs with two out in the ninth inning. Bernie Allen's two-run double brought in two, and the third scored when shortstop Don Money lost a pop fly in the sun.

Cleveland overcame a 4-0 Cub lead by scoring five times in the seventh on a double, two singles, four walks and a hit batsman.

Historical Society Hears Talk on Museum Operation

Daniel R. Porter, director of the Ohio Historical Society, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Pickaway County Historical Society held in the Episcopal Parish House.

Porter, who was introduced by Mark Armstrong, spoke to a large attendance and outlined many facets in operating a successful museum. His presentation was followed with a question and answer session.

Three types of basic museum were discussed: 1) The art museum, which is the easiest to operate as it contains only art objects and they are self-explanatory to the extent that they speak for themselves. You either like the object, or you dislike it intensely, he noted. 2) Science and industry museum. A museum of this type requires written or verbal explanations in order to understand the intent of the exhibit. 3) History museum, the type most frequently operated by local communities.

The history museum is placed in four categories: 1. Restoration or preservation of articles, information, etc., which remain. This includes the restoration of old rooms. 2. The educational museum which adapts itself to knowledge of the past and is of value to school children and for research. 3. The shrine - type of museum which is adapted to the preservation and display of objects relating to the pioneer days. 4. The combination type, which is an adaptation of the educational-restoration museum such as the Sherman House of Lancaster, Ohio; an excellent example of this type of museum.

A MOST important function in operating a museum is to provide a minimum budget of five dollars per square foot for exhibits, he said. Costs or expenditures should approximate one dollar per visitor on an annual basis. If costs exceed this amount, it can be considered that the museum is not operating at optimum efficiency.

Porter listed ten rules as "musts" for the proper operation of a museum:

1. The museum must tell a story, it must dramatize exhibits. The mere placing of an article or similar articles on a shelf is not a satisfactory method of exhibition.

2. No curator has complete knowledge, or "is an island unto himself"; it takes the services of many volunteers. Several points which should be stressed in making displays are the kind of lighting, the cleaning of exhibits without the elimination of age and the writing of proper comment on each exhibit.

3. Honor the collections or exhibits. It is sinful to subordinate an excellent exhibit to a slick art sign. The use of gaudy signs relegates the importance of the article exhibited to the background.

4. Exhibits must be made to encompass a period of time or era. Respect for personal forebears should not overwhelm the greater value of showing the true concept of an era. Many people have a fetish for log cabins and like to display them, showing a joint relationship with their ancestors. In reality, log cabins were only a means of housing until something better could be provided. Those who lived in log cabins longed for the day of the better habitat; likewise, the fireplace with its numerous kitchen utensils should be artfully shown as those methods used during a trying period and not construed as a desirable mode of living.

5. THE museum must be true to the local community. Exhibits should portray typical objects or scenes of the area which enhance local history.

6. It is essential that proper recognition to value of gifts be given, as those who donate articles are sensitive to the meaning of the gift.

7. A modern museum should discard the traditional approach of assembling a group of similar articles such as lamps, guns, dolls, etc., by lining them up on a shelf; such articles should be displayed in a manner that will cover craftsmanship, or there may be exhibits showing the frugality by which the pioneers lived, their piety and their courage.

8. Educational exhibits are the goal. It must be remembered, however, that the museum should not be enhanced at the

More Pueblo Letters Sent; Phrasing Rouses Suspicion

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea continued today to release appeals it said were written by crewmen of the captured USS Pueblo, but the parents of one crewman said the letter they received wasn't phrased the way their son talks.

In Niles, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Rogala agreed the letter was in the handwriting of their son, Seaman Appren. Richard J. Rogala.

But Rogala noted that his son referred four times to the "Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

"Now I know he wouldn't talk about North Korea that way unless he was made to do so," Rogala said.

He also was puzzled over a statement in the letter that the Pueblo was "exactly 7.6 miles from their (Korea's) coast" when the ship and its 82 crewmen were captured Jan. 23.

"How would he know exactly how far the ship was from the Korean coast unless someone told him and made him write it down?" Rogala asked.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency—KCNA—released the text of letters attributed to Seaman Rogala Sunday, along with letters attributed to Lawrence William Mack of Detroit.

KCNA quoted Mack as telling U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gov. George Romney of Michigan that the Pueblo "was captured intact with secret and top secret documents and materials plus logs and charts detailing its espionage activities."

The agency broadcast five more letters today, bringing to 28 the number of what it has described as appeals by the Pueblo crewmen for the U.S. government to accept North Korean terms to win release for the crew. The North Koreans claim the Pueblo was spying in their territorial waters. They demand an apology and a promise of no spying against them in the future.

Each pleaded innocent. Twenty-one persons aboard the Boeing 727 "Mandarin jet" lost their lives in the crash as did a Chinese man whose house was struck by the plane.

Convictions could carry a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a fine of $225 in the case of Dew, and two years in jail and a fine of $150 for Hicks.

Charges against the two pilots were based on the contention that the assigned pilots for the fatal flight from Hong Kong was Dew and that he had no right to turn over the controls to Hicks.

Each pilot said no improper procedure was involved.

Thomas Licavoli Makes New Bid For Freedom

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State Penitentiary Warden E. L. Maxwell has been given 20 days to show why former Toledo gang leader Thomas Licavoli should not be released after some 34 years in prison.

Licavoli's habeas corpus action, filed in federal court in Columbus, charges that defense witnesses were pressured in his trial which left him under a life sentence.

Licavoli also alleges that undue publicity made a fair trial impossible.

The Licavoli gang operated allegedly linked to both the Purple gang of Detroit and the Capone gang of Chicago.

Licavoli, now a cook in the penitentiary's honor dormitory, was returned to the penitentiary a few years ago after reports that he was receiving special favors at the prison's honor camp in Hocking County.

Ohio Traffic Toll Only 7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite snow and ice that covered most of the roads and highways, Ohio reported one of its safest weekends of the year.

Only seven traffic deaths were reported during the weekend count from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday. Four of the deaths were Friday night during the height of the late winter storm.

The latest victims:

Saturday
Terry Lee Cross, 17, Wells-ville, in a two-car accident on the Ohio Turnpike in Portage County.

Sunday
Mrs. Florence Saunders, 73, Youngstown, died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday in a two-car collision near Youngstown.

Barbara Sigler, 20, Youngstown, killed in a two-car collision, also in Youngstown.

Burns Are Fatal To Elderly Woman

CINCINNATI (AP) — Flora Smith, 82, a patient at the Aaron Convalescent Home in nearby Reading, burned to death late Sunday, police said.

Fire officials theorized that the woman had been smoking and her clothing had caught fire.
